Youth Finds Antidote to Heat Wave

Hotter the day, wetter the play. Wading pools were the rallying point of hundreds of youngsters yesterday and through the previous two days of record heat here. Pamela Tarr, 7, of 121 Douglas, and Christopher Neil, 6, of 28 Douglas, were among scores of neighborhood kiddies in Beacon Hill park pool

Police Glimpse Fugitive Bank Bandit; Guided Search Turns Up None of Loot

ST. RAYMOND DE PORTNEUF, Que. (CP)—A fleeting glimpse of a desperate fugitive and a "wild goose chase" for loot from a bank robbery featured a grim manhunt in nearby forests late Friday.

These developments came after the second man of a hunted trio—sought since a bank robbery Tuesday—gave himself up, exhausted, hungry and footsore, and his flesh raw from mosquito bites.

He was identified by police as Claude Gingras, 17. Leo Cyr, 28, of Montreal, gave himself up Wednesday.

The lone fugitive at large was identified by police as Frank Gingras, 28, brother of Claude. Police quoted Claude as saying Frank is haunted by the mistaken fear that he had killed a policeman. Actually a constable was wounded in a skirmish Wednesday.

Lieut. Conrad Giroux said he and other officers late Friday carried out a "wild goose chase" after being told by Cyr that he hid his share of the $3,000 loot from the bank robbery near the St. Anne river, some six miles west of here.

Giroux said no money was found although Cyr accompanied the officers on the search. Earlier in the day, Cyr pleaded guilty in Quebec City to a formal bank robbery charge. He was remanded for sentence until June 17.

The search—involving some 50 heavily - armed provincial policemen—received sharp impetus late Friday with a tip that Frank Gingras had been spotted in a field near where Claude was first seen.

A police party—accompanied by this reporter—investigated the tip and saw a man running haltingly along the edge of a wood. He escaped before some 10 pursuers, carrying sub-machine guns, rifles and revolvers, could close in.

Lieut. Giroux said police have been ordered not to enter the bush unless necessary, as they might well be "sitting ducks" for the fugitive, who is known to be well armed.

"We can wait," the lieutenant muttered.

Gas Needs Great

HAMILTON (CP)—The natural gas industry promises a tremendous new source of energy for Canada and it is a matter of urgency that a solution to the gas problem be found as quickly as possible, Vernon Taylor, western regional producing manager for Imperial Oil Ltd. said Friday.

Addressing the annual meeting of the Natural Gas and Petroleum Association of Canada, Mr. Taylor said development of natural gas will stimulate additional investment and employment and the oil industry which "had had to fly on one wing owing to the absence of an economic market for gas."—

Mr. Taylor predicted that at least 400,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day will be exported from Alberta to eastern Canada and south by 1960. A similar amount could be exported to the Pacific coast and utilities in Alberta and Saskatchewan would need approximately 375,000,000 cubic feet Western Canada accordingly would have to produce nearly 1,200,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day to meet those demands.

This Story Made Of Whole Cloth

WASHINGTON (UP)—Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther explained Friday that size is all a matter of perspective.

He told a National Press Club lunch a story to illustrate this. It involved Russia's bulky Communist party secretary Nikita S. Khruschev.

Seems Khruschev, before his trip to Yugoslavia, wanted a three-piece suit made. He took a bolt of cloth to his Moscow tailor.

"Sorry," the tailor replied, "but there isn't enough cloth. I'll have to omit the vest."

At Belgrade, a Yugoslav tailor agreed to make a three-piece suit.

Khruschev asked how he could do this when the Moscow tailor couldn't.

"It's not so difficult," replied the Yugoslav. "You see, you are a bigger man in Moscow than you are in Belgrade."

Signs Point Upward

Howe Sees 1955 As Best Year Yet

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe said Friday night that 1955 "will probably be the most prosperous year in Canada's history."

He said the CCF and Progressive Conservative parties have been predicting depressions ever since the Second World War.

"If there has been a depression in Canada this year it must have been the shortest on record, for production is higher than it has ever been and employment is rising rapidly after the winter lull."

Mr. Howe made his optimistic prediction in a recorded broadcast in the CBC's free time political series, the nation's business. A similar statement was made by Transport Minister Marler, speaking in French on another CBC network.

"I have no doubt that there are going to be some ups and downs in business, but I think we are going to continue moving forward here in Canada," Mr. Howe said.

He said that in the six-month period ended last March 31 Canada exported more goods than in any corresponding period before. In the first four months of the year, exports were $144,000,000 above those of a year earlier.

Jobless Gain Six Weeks' Pay

OTTAWA (CP) — The government agreed Friday to cut only 15 weeks, instead of 21, from the maximum period in which unemployed can draw benefits under the Unemployment Insurance Act.

Labor Minister Gregg proposed to the Commons that the maximum benefit period be set at 36 weeks in a bill revamping the act.

The 14-year-old statute has provided a maximum of 51 weeks and the government, in its overhaul of the measure this session, originally proposed to cut it to 30 weeks.

Yacht Club Race Season Highlight

The waterfront from Cadboro bay to the breakwater and beyond will be one long grandstand Sunday for the public to watch Royal Victoria Yacht Club's major sailing event of the season.

This is the annual race to William Head and back, approximately 28 miles, for a trophy put up many years ago by the late Ben Temple, one of the fathers of yacht racing in B.C. waters.

About a score of yachts, including Royal Canadian Navy Sailing Association's six Sailerette class sloops, will be in the race this year, and their tactical manoeuvering for position will be in full view.

Race will start from Cadboro Bay at 10 a.m. Sunday and the course leaves it optional to skippers to pass Trial island either to starboard or port. From there the course will parallel the shoreline, passing inside Brotchie ledge before yachts begin the long beat to windward to the William Head marker.

On the return leg, likely to be a spectacular spinnaker run, yachts will pass outside Trial island approaching the finish line in Cadboro Bay.

Old Lansdowne Airfield Site

Giant Shopping Centre May Be Built in Victoria

Simpson-Sears Asks 14 Acres

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

Application for the rezoning of 14 acres for a new community shopping centre has been made on behalf of the big eastern firm of Simpson-Sears.

The land is the southern section of the old Lansdowne airfield, south of the new Lansdowne Junior High school. It is bounded by Shelbourne, Lansdowne, Richmond and Newton and is on the Victoria-Saanich boundary, one block from Oak Bay.

The application for commercial rezoning of the area has been passed on by Saanich council to the Capital Region Planning Board for investigation.

It is understood that if the application is granted, Simpson-Sears will build a large store on the property, and part of the land will be leased for a chain grocery outlet.

Simpson-Sears development, which might include a large store of Canada Safeway Ltd., would occupy the lower one-third of the first government-financed "land assembly project" in Greater Victoria.

HOUSING SCHEME

Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, which owns the airfield property, has drawn up a $250,000 housing scheme which involves the sale of the other two thirds of the 46 acres to home builders.

There are at least 135 lots for homes.

Central Mortgage and Housing is paying for installation of sewers, water mains, fire hydrants, street lighting, seal-coat hard-top roads and curbs and other services. Cost of services is included in price of the lots, which will average 60 by 100 feet.

H. D. Dawson, Saanich municipal engineer, said department crews will begin placing services on Carnarvon next week and will move on the short distance to the housing area "in a week or two."

He stated earlier that construction of homes should be started before the end of the year.

Majority of the commercial area will be between Newton road and Bowker Creek. Apartments will be included. All of the area is now zoned "single family."

Simpson-Sears development will be centrally located in Greater Victoria. In the immediate vicinity, more than 700 homes have been constructed during the past two or three years, majority of them in the Dean Heights area.

ONE OF 20 CITIES

Building still goes on in the district, bounded roughly by Lansdowne, Haultain, Richmond and Cadboro Bay road.

When the Simpson and Sears-Roebuck organizations formed Simpson-Sears a few years ago, Victoria was one of 20 cities in Canada where major stores were planned.

Original site was at Tolmie and Douglas, but this site apparently has been abandoned. The company has already built extensive developments in Burnaby and New Westminster.

Application for rezoning of the airfield property is expected to be considered by Saanich town planning commission at its next meeting, June 16.

Settlement Hopes High

VANCOUVER (CP) — Optimism for the early settlement of the contract dispute between 30,000 loggers and 168 operators was expressed here Friday by conciliator Fred Smelts.

The coastal industry is arguing over demands by the International Woodworkers of America (CIO-CCL) for a 10-cent increase and fringe benefits. Mr. Smelts said he was "reasonably optimistic" talks would produce a peaceful meeting for a week.

Monkey Apes Men

"Blackie," a spider monkey, has just as much sense as his cousins in trousers. He prefers girls to men. He clung close to Barbara Baker, teller at Bank of Nova Scotia, Hillside and Douglas, while she went shopping at Fairways Grocery. And he was not friendly with the man behind the camera.

U.S. Navy Pacific Chief To Pay Call on Hibbard

ADMIRAL FELIX B. STUMP, USN

Admiral Felix B. Stump, USN, commander-in-chief of the United States Pacific fleet, will be in Victoria Monday to pay an informal call on Rear-Admiral J. C. Hibbard prior to the latter's retirement next month as Flag Officer Pacific Coast.

Admiral Stump will be accompanied by Rear-Admiral A. M. Bledsoe of Seattle, commander of the Northern Sector of the Western Sea Frontier.

Admiral Hibbard has conferred regularly with Admiral Stump at his headquarters at Pearl Harbor, and with Admiral Bledsoe in Seattle.

Monday's call will be the first Admiral Stump has paid to the RCN's Pacific Command in his current appointment.

The two visiting admirals are to arrive at Patricia Bay airport at 10.30 a.m. They will be met by Admiral Hibbard and escorted by RCMP to the dockyard, where a guard of honor will be inspected by Admiral Stump.

A personal 17-gun salute will be fired for Admiral Stump from Duntze Head.

After a meeting with Admiral Hibbard there will be a small reception at Admiral's House.

Ex-Convict Wants Back

Ready for Smuggling into U.S.

$1,000,000,000 Dope Hoard Stored by Ring in Mexico

NEW YORK (AP)—Federal authorities reported Friday that a narcotics syndicate has $1,000,000,000 worth of cocaine stored in Mexico for smuggling into the United States.

The report came with the disclosure that officers have already seized one shipment, worth $2,500,000, and tabbed the biggest ever netted in the U.S.

Federal authorities in Brooklyn said the shipment was found with the arrest of two messengers who brought the cocaine to New York City from Mexico.

It was indicated also that officials know the identity of the syndicate's chief, identified only as a "Senor X," and are on the look out for him.

Operations of the vast dope enterprise were made public Friday when a sealed indictment, charging the two messengers with various federal narcotics law violations, was opened in court.

Their arrest had been kept secret since May 18 to permit authorities to try to nab the syndicate leader. However, he apparently got wind of developments and called off a projected trip to the United States.

Those under arrest were identified as Manuel Mendez Marfa, 31, of Havana, Cuba, and Miguel Angel Gonzalez y Hernandez, also 31, of Mexico City.

They were said to have come here by commercial airline, smuggling the cocaine in false-bottom suitcases.

Screen Debut . . . | . . . With Expressions

Liberace (in Color) Gives It All He's Got

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Liberace is making his debut as a movie star in his first straight dramatic role—minus his candelabra and brother George. But there will be dancing and expressions ranging from "shock to tears."

In case you've missed the pearly-toothed television matinee idol on the home screens, Warner studio is presenting him to the world as an actor in big screen color and stereophonic sound.

"I'm stepping out of character for the first time and people are curious to see how I meet the challenge," Liberace said between scenes.

"Yesterday I did a very difficult scene in which I had to show shock, panic and sadness, in that order. Why, I got so worked up," he smiled, "that as I came off the set I was still crying!"

Previously the pianist did only a bit on a Shelly Winters' movie, "South Sea Sinners," and performed in two RKO musical shorts.

After he became the hottest thing on TV since old movies, Warner's waved a contract under his nose. The rich Liberace decided to become richer "because movies will be a wonderful way to get to still a greater audience than I reach on TV—Europe."

His movie, "Sincerely Yours," is a story about a musician who goes deaf and, while recovering, influences the lives of persons who pass by his window. The plot sounds suspiciously like an earlier Warner epic starring George Arliss, "The Man Who Played God."

"Sincerely Yours" will be but the first film in Liberace's new career as a movie actor. He has, however, no plans to re-do other Arliss films such as "Disraeli" and "Alexander Hamilton."

"I'm scheduled for five pictures at Warner's" he explained. "They're talking about doing a period picture, a comedy and a re-make of 'The Man Who Came To Dinner'."

Though Liberace has left his frilly shirts and gold shoes at home, he's kept his famous smile for his movie.

"And the script embodies things people know me for, such as love of family, religion, tragedy and humor," he added.

His dressing room at the studio boasts silver wallpaper and his familiar flowing signature on the door. Workers from nearby movies crowd his set to watch the TV star in action.

For today's scene he was supposed to be playing in Carnegie Hall ("When Irish Eyes are smiling"). Then he did a neat soft shoe to "Tea For Two."

"He's been practicing his dance routines around his piano-shaped swimming pool," a Liberace aide confided.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

THE pet crawfish had lived in our house for three years, but we didn't know he was sensitive to heat. Our ignorance was his tough luck. I'm afraid.

A crawfish (in case anyone doesn't know) is a small fresh-water cousin to a lobster, with armor plate, a number of legs and pinching claws.

We found this one under a rock in the Cowichan river, and kept him in a glass dish full of water. By keeping him three years, we set a record among crawfish owners. At least, I think it was a record. To tell the truth, I don't know any other crawfish owners.

* * *

We caught this crawfish when he was a transparent midget about half an inch long, and watched him grow into a thumb-sized monster that gobbled whole worms and waved his large claws in a menacing way.

He was the last in a succession of crawfish. Others were eaten by cats, perished from suffocation because their water was too deep or too stale, or escaped and dried out before they could crawl to water. This one lasted.

* * *

We kept a crawfish for much the same reason that a small boy keeps a tadpole in a jar—"Just to look at him." Some boys grow up, and others don't.

And when I looked at the crawfish I sometimes thought of pools in the river on green summer days, a long time ago.

There is a fascination, too, about a dim, alien form of life from another element. So we kept the crawfish, changed the water in his dish once a week, and fed him worms and bacon.

* * *

Just for fun I showed him to visitors now and then. "Ugh!" was the usual response from women, and "Huh!" from men—the latter accompanied by a faint, patronizing smile. They though I was nuts. Goldfish or guppies, yes. But whoever thought of keeping an armored monster with claws?

After a while I kent the existence of the crawfish to myself, as thuogh he were an idiot cousin who lived in the attic.

But once a visitor returned after an absence of two years actually asked to see him. My wife actually acquired a distant liking or respect for the creature which had been part of the household scene for such a long time (although far in the background, indeed) and had moved with us through three houses.

The boy (who was six months younger than our weird house-guests) was much intrigued by the crawfish. He referred to it as the "ish" and frequently clamored for it to be brought down and shown him.

* * *

I am sorry to report that our crawfish became a casualty of the heat wave. When I fetched him down from the high cupboard where he lived, he was stiff. He must have simmered to death in his shallow bowl.

I tried to revive him under the tap, but it was no use. The small boy clamored to be lifted on a chair, so he could look at the fish.

"Fish wants bacon," he announced. "Fish is dead," I told him.

"Fish dead," he said with a smile. Fish wants a worm, Deddy." Mortality is something he doesn't understand yet.

Retiring Head of Victoria High Honored at Graduation Rites

Moral and spiritual courage is the greatest human virtue, Dr. Harold L. Campbell, provincial superintendent of education, told the Victoria high school graduation class at commencement exercises last night.

"This particular brand of courage enables you to stand firm for the things you believe are right. It is the courage to be honest, to face difficulties and disappointments, and to light-heartedly try again after accepting failure," he said.

Dr. Campbell commended the school's retiring principal, Harry L. Smith, who, he said, "has given guidance and direction of a high order and has built into the fabric of this institution a moral, spiritual and intellectual tone which has not been exceeded by any school in the province."

Mr. Smith has held the office of principal for 20 years.

REASON FOR PRIDE

"May I say, both personally and officially, that he has every reason to be proud of the contribution he has made, not only to the young people of Victoria, but to the cause of good education in this province," he said.

Valedictorian William W. Ozard said the class of 1955 considered it "a great honor to be a member of the last class to graduate under the principalship of our good friend Mr. Smith."

The principal pointed out that in 1943, Dr. Campbell, at that time school inspector, inaugurated the first public graduation ceremony in the school.

Stage and width of the front of the auditorium was filled by the 235-member class, which presented three songs as a massed choir.

Mr. Smith's favorite hymn, "Lead On, O King Eternal," was dedicated to the retiring principal. Other numbers presented were "The Blind Plowman," "Brother James' Air," and "The Holy City."

Oak Bay Ceremonies Fill Auditorium

Impressive graduation and prize-giving ceremonies of Oak Bay high school were witnessed last night by a capacity crowd of proud parents, relatives and friends.

Several stood at the back of Oak Bay junior high school's auditorium, used for the occasion, when all seats were quickly filled.

The formal gowns of the girls of the graduating class provided a splash of color as the class members entered the auditorium in procession.

Principal C. A. Gibbard told graduating members they were going out into the world as "confident, sure, well-rounded citizens."

"The reputation won by Oak Bay high school pupils this year in studies and sports on the whole was equal to that won by our students in past years," added the principal.

A. H. Stott, Daily Times associate editor, who addressed the class, said they were young Elizabethans—"stepping into a world filled with a spirit of high adventure."

"You are the people who will prove to us who are older that many of the things we thought impossible can be done," said Mr. Stott.

"Nowhere outside of Canada have young people a greater opportunity or wider horizons," he added.

Messages of congratulation were given to the class by W. C. Gelling, of the Greater Victoria school board, and John Gough, municipal school inspector.

English In Dark On Grant

City council's refusal to allocate a grant to Victoria Symphony Society Thursday brought no reaction from society president J. F. K. English late yesterday—in fact he hadn't even heard of the decision.

"I don't know anything about it . . . it's the first I've heard of it," he said. "And anyway, it certainly would not be timely for me to make any comment."

The symphony society lost an estimated $10,000 last season.

At the council meeting Thursday, Ald. M. H. Mooney moved that no grant be given to the society. Ald. W. F. Pinfold moved an amendment that $1,000 be donated, and council also voted on an amendment calling for a $500 donation.

Both the motion and the two amendments were defeated and council went on to other business.

"Certainly no member of our board would be in a position to make a statement," said Mr. English. "I would have to have been at the meeting to hear the discussion before I could say anything."

Garden Notes

Water Lilies Good for Years

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

The owner of a small garden pool is fortunate in that once his water lilies have been planted, they don't require any more attention for about four years. During this time, if correctly planted, they will continue to increase in size every year, producing bigger and better flowers.

Eventually, however, there comes a time when the plant shows signs of distress by throwing fewer and smaller flowers, due to exhaustion of the food in the soil and water. When this happens, it is necessary to lift the plants and divide them, very much in the same way as you treat the clumps of overgrown perennials in the flower border.

MESSY JOB

On paper, this may sound simple, but in actual practice, the lifting and dividing of a water lily is one of the most unpleasant jobs in the garden.

The first job is to get at the roots. If you own a pair of high waders, you can go in after it, loosening the clump with a spade, and dragging it out with a long-handled rake. Or you can put a couple of planks across the pool, and with the help of a friend, shove a couple of garden forks down alongside the clump and lever it up from both sides simultaneously.

HORRIBLE MESS

Once you get it up out of the water, it will present a horrible mass of oozing, muddy roots with a few new leaves growing out of the top, and some developing shoots containing the flower buds.

You can't see where to divide it in this condition, and it will be necessary to wash off all the mud with a strong jet from the hose.

The trick in diving is to select pieces from the outside of the clump for replanting, preferably pieces having from one to three flowering crowns.

You can spot these by their fat appearance, and they are usually surrounded by a cluster of undeveloped leaves. With small clumps, you can divide by thrusting two forks into the mass back to back, and by forcing the two handles together, you can lever the clump apart.

With the bigger and tougher clumps, you may have to chop off the selected pieces with an axe or hatchet. The old, exhausted portion in the middle of the clump is best discarded.

In replanting, treat each piece as you would a newly-purchased root. They are best placed in baskets or slatted boxes holding at least a bucketful of good, rich loam with bone meal added. Insert the roots, keeping them pointing downward, and fill with the soil-bonemeal mixture until the crown is only just above soil level. Then drop into the pool where the plant is to bloom.

Peak Rumbles, Belches Mud; Slide Feared

FRANK, Alta. (CP)—Reports of strange rumblings and black mud running from the side of Turtle mountain were heard Friday as residents of nearby villages in the Crowsnest pass of southwestern Alberta feared the mountain may have a major upheaval again after 52 years.

William Kovach, Social Credit member of the provincial legislature for Pincher Creek-Crowsnest, said he heard the rumbling noise at 9:30 a.m. Thursday.

Kovach said he and several men with him looked out an office window and saw black muck run out of the side of Turtle mountain.

Fifty-two years ago 70,000 tons of rock slid off the side of the mountain about 4 am., wiping out the village of Frank which was then rapidly developing into a busy coal mining town. An estimated 80 persons died then.

Mr. Kovach said when he heard the rumbling he thought it was blasting by a road construction crew building a highway through the area in the valley where the limestone rocks came to rest in 1903.

But later it was learned there had been no blasting.

MIST SHROUDS FALL

Mr. Kovach said the black muck was accompanied by what appeared to be steam or mist. When the mist cleared, the muck had run down the side of the mountain and had turned a brownish-yellow color and appeared sandy in structure.

Hillcrest, from where Mr. Kovach saw the strange occurrence, is southwest of the mountain and Frank, in the north valley before the 1903 slide, has been rebuilt northeast of the mountain.

Ripple Rock Blasting Job Gets $750,000

The federal government has set aside $750,000 for the removal by blasting of dangerous Ripple rock in Seymour narrows.

The vote was listed in estimates of the federal public works department released in Ottawa Thursday.

The department has already done survey work on the rock, a menace to navigation for many years. Plans call for drilling below the sea up into the centre of the rock. A gigantic charge will be set off which will blow the top off the rock.

Only vote for Victoria in the estimates was $148,000 for equipment in the new post office, $60,000 of which was voted but not spent last year.

Another $45,000 was listed for dredging Victoria's harbor near Point Ellice bridge. The work has already been completed.

Rail Talks Drag On Amid Guarded Hope

LONDON (Reuters)—Union and management leaders negotiated for eight hours Friday on ending Britain's 13-day rail strike amid guarded hopes the trains might be running again early next week.

A sign of progress came Friday when Jim Campbell, general secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, conferred with railroad executives. Campbell's non-striking union would have to be in on any deal for pay increases to rail workers. But it had not been certain he would take part in Friday's series of talks between management and the strikers.

Other main participants dispersed without comment after further talks had been adjouned until today.

MONTREAL—Striking stewards aboard the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Australia have caused cancellation of the June 3 sailing from Liverpool and the June 13 sailing from Montreal.

Next sailing of the Empress of Australia is scheduled for June 24.

The situation among the crew of the Empress of France is "confused," officials said, and they are unable to fix a westbound sailing date for the vessel, which was scheduled to sail from Liverpool Friday. Consequently, the Montreal departure of the vessel scheduled for June 21 will be delayed.

B.C. Polio Cases Light So Far

British Columbia is still running well behind 1954 so far this year in the total of polio cases.

Officials reported yesterday there had been 35 cases in the province to June 10. The most recent was at HMCS Naden, Esquimalt. There have been five cases since June 1.

Last year at this time there had been 62 cases. It was an extremely light year.

But officials of the health department caution it is too early yet to predict a trend. The worst months are August and September.

Meanwhile, immunization of 49,500 five and six-year-olds with the anti-polio Salk vaccine has been completed. The government hopes to get a new supply of the vaccine to extend to another age gruop when school opens again in September.

City Unemployment At Two-Year Low

Number of unemployed in Victoria reached the lowest point in two years during the second week in June, according to the National Employment office.

Led by a boom in the construction industry, employment for men is increasing steadily as business volume in the area continues to rise.

In the women's section, the earlier slight in factory jobs has been satisfied and such jobs are now scarce. The need for domestic workers of various categories remains high, and the demand for experienced waitresses and competent stenographers has increased.

Jobs requiring professional and trade skills are increasing in other parts of the country. Persons considering moving from the area may check lists of jobs at the Victoria office.

Peach Aphis Identified As Culprit

The aphis which has attacked Saanich strawberries this year has been identified as the green peach aphis, which has never been known to attack strawberry plants in this area.

Dominion entomologist Harry Andison last night advised Saanich fruit growers to fight the aphis with malathion spray, which, however, must not be used during the two-week period before picking.

TEPP spray may be used up until picking time, and in warm weather, after the fruit has been picked, a nicotine spray may be used.

Some Saanich strawberry patches are complete losses this year because of the attacks by the aphis, but on the average 10 per cent of the crop has been affected.

BONN (AP)—A West German veterans' newspaper, Soldatenzeitung, Friday demanded that Radio Free Europe should be expelled from Germany because of "anti-German activity." The paper alleged $60,000,000 contributed by Americans was being used "to work up Czech hate against Germans."

Solid Conservative Win

THE decisive return of Premier Frost's Progressive Conservative administration in the Ontario general election leaves no doubt as to what party is in public favor there on the provincial scene. The loss of a non-portfolioed minister was set-off by the taking of seven of the eight new seats in the Ontario Legislature, while the Conservative majority over all parties in the House has moved up strongly. As the most populous province in Canada, benefiting particularly from settlement influx and currently buoyant business conditions, Ontario has not had many problems that proved insoluble in the past few years. The vigorous support of Premier Frost, however, appears to be more than the logical outcome of that. It was a clear-cut, emphasized and driven-home Conservative victory.

There will be much argument now as to what the Ontario general election result implies on the national political scene. Experience has shown that decided swings in the temper of provincial electors sometimes forecast the changing of the guard in federal polls. In almost any province save Ontario such an outstanding victory as that won by Premier Frost and his supporters would be considered such a swing. In Ontario, with its long record of Conservative allegiance, such a result probably has less direct meaning. One thing it does imply, and this is that the chances of federal Liberals making significant inroads in Ontario at the next Dominion election would appear to be chimerical. It has yet to be shown, however, what the Progressive Conservatives can do in Quebec, which together with Ontario is crucial in national balloting.

Of the five provincial general elections called across Canada for the summer and post-summer period two have been held. Prince Edward Island returned a Liberal administration with a strongly increased majority. Ontario this week voted traditionally true to form in favor of the Conservatives. The balance of the summer will add to that record, one way or the other. Meanwhile Premier Frost is entitled to be pleased at the very handsome endorsement his party has received at the provincial polls.

Military Cleavage

THE bland announcement that Lieut.-General Guy Simonds is being retired because his term as army chief of staff is up forces one to read between the lines. That is not difficult to do. Following on the recent disciplinary action taken against Air Vice-Marshal Plant and the trend of military thinking as voiced of late by high ranking officers, the conclusion is unmistakable that there is a sharp clash of opinion between the service chiefs and the government as to this country's course of military preparedness. On the broad grounds of responsibility the government must be defended in that the civilian authority is paramount and must remain so.

There has been a tendency on the part of top-level military men to speak publicly in the fashion of their contemporaries across the line, seemingly having become affected by the joint defensive liaison. No Canadian government can stand for national policy being pronounced or advocated by its military chiefs; that is a civilian prerogative in this country no matter what happens elsewhere. On the other hand the government has invited some of its trouble by weakness in not facing up to the issue of compulsory national service. Neither is a government or a country well served if its chief military advisers are merely yes-men; and if present national defence policies run counter to the considered opinion of its chiefs-of-staff committee then the government is taking a grave step if it ignores that advice in toto. The civilian authority must be sustained, but even justified disciplinary measures do not necessarily mean the government is wholly right and its professional advisers wholly wrong.

It will be a pity if General Simonds' services as a soldier are to be completely lost to the nation. He is conceded to be the most brilliant field tactician produced by this country during the war and he is still only 52 years old. His term is said to be up but that is a convenient excuse; no set terms marked his predecessors as army chief of staff and his designated successor is five years older. There should be some way of employing his skill and knowledge during the current period of international military tension and of harmonizing to a considerable degree the divergence of views which exist between him and the defence minister. It would be unfortunate if because of the need to assert its rightful authority as controller of military policies in general the government thereby deprived Canada of an officer who has much of value yet to give in its behalf.

June's Double Danger

IT is a paradox of the seasons in this province that the one bringing the greatest danger from water also introduces a period of extreme danger from fire. In most countries it is rain which produces floods. Here it is a sudden rise in temperature. A hot spell after a colder than usual spring can very quickly turn snow-fed rivers into raging torrents, overflowing their banks and submerging the lowlands. The same hot spell can almost as quickly dehydrate the forests to the point where they need only a spark to explode them into a blazing inferno.

The riparian situation chiefly concerns the lower mainland areas, and there is nothing much the civilian population can do about it except to lend a hand to flood victims if help should be needed. Flood prevention and control are the problem of government departments.

The other June and summer-long menace is everyone's concern, however, and the success of prevention there is measured to a very large extent by the public's sense of responsibility. Until this week there was not much point in appealing to campers, picnickers, fishermen and the travelling public generally to be careful in timbered areas, because when the weather is cold and cloudy it is hard to persuade people that there is much danger of the forests catching fire. This week's sudden change in conditions, bringing with it talk of the possibility of an early industrial forest closure, contained a warning signal which anyone should be able to read. Moisture content in many wooded areas of Vancouver Island already has dropped below the danger level, creating a situation demanding the utmost caution.

British Columbia people generally were given credit recently for intelligent appreciation of the summer fire danger. Each year, however, a careless few continue to cause fires costing the province and the country serious loss of valuable timber. The rules for prevention are almost childishly simple and have been repeated over and over again. From now on they should be kept in mind by everyone who goes into or near timbered country.

Interpreting the News

Negotiating From Strength

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

NATO'S supreme commander, Gen. Alfred Gruenther says Western negotiators now have behind them the military superiority they have always thought they would need before they could manoeuvre Russia into any real East-West settlement.

As of now, the general says, the West can defeat any Soviet aggression.

It's better news for the United States, however, than for her European partners. For Gruenther says the Allied edge lies in atomic weapons and strategic air power and talks of an ultimate victory.

He admits it will be three or four years—when a German army will be in the field—before Europe could be held firmly against the first Communist thrusts.

As Gen. Gruenther describes the situation, however, insofar as Europe is concerned, the West has attained the "position of strength" for which it has been reaching ever since the full extent of Russia's expansionist policies was revealed.

The deterrent against war exists.

Negotiations or a stalemate are for the moment, the only likely answers.

Russia indicates she would rather have a negotiated stalemate than a merely passive one. A negotiated stalemate, creating the impression that the Reds are not to be feared as much as they have been, would give them just the opportunity they want for overcoming the Allied strategic weapons margin, so they could resume their pressures for expansion.

* * *

Russia, of course, also is attempting to advertise her own military strength in advance of the Big Four conferences.

She has made arrangements for a certain amount of face-saving over the abrogation of the peace treaty clauses which require her to remove her troops from Romania and Hungary after Austria is evacuated.

U.S. Secretary of State Foster Dulles says he fully expects her to continue her present military posture through the stage setting of the Warsaw military alliance.

If Gruenther's military estimate is correct it marks the beginning of a period in which Russia can be required to react to Allied initiative as the Allies have for years been required to react to Russian initiative.

"Shouldn't the bodyguard stay more in the background?"

Then and Now

By FRANK KELLEY

THESE are difficult days for steamship companies. People prefer planes when they go places. So annual deficits feature reports to shareholders instead of the more welcome receipt of earned dividends once each year.

It was different once upon a time through the evident co-operation of crews and clients. This is apparent when one recalls how the operators of pioneering vessels managed to make two ends meet, keeping ships moving and maintaining schedules catering to very limited patronage out of Victoria and Vancouver. They managed to survive and establish dividend-producing services, but it seems as if what we call progress today must take the blame for what is happening to surface transportation everywhere, except in limited operations.

Transport services brought into operation by private investors are entitled, with good planning, to expect some financial return from investment, for the foresight exhibited in establishing progressive properties. For manifest reasons the once popular method of water travel was by steamboat, and is yet no doubt for the few with leisure time. And while I can remember, in some degree, the great co-operation which B.C. Coast Service and its predecessor, Canadian Pacific Navigation Company, at the time extended to homesteaders in out-of-the-way places along the coast and managed to keep going, all one can wonder is what will be the outcome of present trends in water transportation.

* * *

The picture is quite different from what it looked like a few decades ago. I have been told by one in a position to know that Canadian Pacific would be happy if some other concern would take over its coastal services and obligations. At the same time it was pretty generally appreciated that operating costs and the competition of the airplane have posed some pretty stiff problems for steamship operators. We are told there is no money to be earned by shareholders in coastwise services out of B.C. and Washington State ports, especially in the Northern B.C. and Alaska services.

While steamship companies did not make great profits in their pioneering days along our coasts they did manage to keep going, operating somewhat on good will. Time and time again I have been aboard vessels of CPN, Union and Boscowitz companies when their boats would steam miles out of the way to drop a settler and his goods into a waiting boat or pick him up at a certain time. Members of the crew also contributed to good will.

* * *

One thing about those good old days along the west coast of Vancouver Island was the importance of time in certain circumstances. Vessels were supposed to call at stops eastbound if any freight or passengers were booked on the west-bound trip. Otherwise the stop was passed up on the return to Victoria. This was not popular at Alberni, a long way from Barkley Sound with no revenue guaranteed.

I remember one trip during a winter month when the old road over the summit was impassable under a heavy snowfall, when a man boarded the Queen City to book passage for the eastbound trip. With nothing else offering the request was refused; but in preference to calling at Port Alberni under the circumstances he was offered a trip up the coast and back to Victoria for the price of a ticket from Alberni to Victoria, which was $6 for fare, meals and berth. That was good business. A traveller was accommodated and the long run from the mouth of Barkley Sound to Alberni avoided.

Reports from Ottawa

NOBODY'S said officially that Air Vice Marshal John L. Plant was demoted as a consequence of his Toronto speech. He remains an AVM, and his new job is admittedly a big one, making use of his great experience and ability in military logistics.

However, on this demotion point you can judge, as I did, from the reaction of one of the RCAF's public relations officers:

"Take an air member out of headquarters and send him out on a command? Wow!"

* * *

You can also judge from the nature of the two jobs. As air member for technical services, Plant was a member of Air Marshal Roy Slemon's top planning team. He was responsible for recommending plans and policies on air materiel—that is, everything the RCAF uses, from tinned beans to CF-100s.

As AOC air materiel he'll be shorn of his policy-making responsibilities. He'll be relegated to carrying out the policies and plans others lay down—including some he himself made when he was air member.

* * *

It's impossible to tell what part of his speech was most "inappropriate", to use the word which both Defence Minister Campney and Prime Minister St. Laurent applied to Plant's remarks.

He was quoted as saying that war is inevitable, and that "We are keen, anxious and willing to take them (the Russians) on any time they attack us, and we'll knock the hell out of them."

What he really meant, I'm told, is that warfare among nations is natural and inevitable. Not necessarily atomic war, and not necessarily war with the Russians. And no matter what the circumstances, our side would win.

If so, he seems to have phrased his remarks poorly in trying to make a light, witty speech on a deadly serious subject. That's what seemed to exercise the PM when he jumped into the Commons discussion of the Plant affair.

* * *

My impression, however, is that if Plant had stopped there he'd have drawn only a reprimand. But his so-called facetious suggestion that the army should be abolished, to provide more money for the air force, seems to be the real reason for his demotion. As Campney pointed out, an air member works closely with his opposite numbers in the army and navy, on tri-service committees. And the army's opinion of Plant is now such that the cause of inter-service co-operation might suffer unless he were moved to a less sensitive post.

The whole affair also raises the question of whether Plant isn't to some degree a scapegoat for the chief of air staff himself, Air Marshal Slemon. In the heat engendered by Plant's silly "abolish the army" comment, Slemon's own talking out of turn a day earlier—when he said a unified American-Canadian continental defence air command was inevitable—has been all but forgotten. An interesting question for Slemon would be whether he would repeat his observations of last week now, after the Plant incident.

* * *

The RCAF shipped Plant abroad on NATO duty four years ago. His experience as deputy commander of Allied air forces in Central Europe, plus his great logistics ability, make him at 45 one of the RCAF's most valuable officers. His fine service record far outweighs his human failings.

The Packsack

Idle Ashtrays

By GREGORY CLARK

IT has been my experience that 95 out of 100 motorists, spring, summer, autumn and winter, flip the butts of their cigarettes out the window of their cars rather than stubbing them out in the ash tray with which all cars, including trucks, are equipped. It is probably a universal Canadian habit. Yet no one knows how many of the desperately costly forest fires which have disgraced the Canadian season this year so far were due to cigarette butts flipped from car and truck windows.

* * *

It is an ingrained habit, and will be hard to eradicate. At a summer cottage resort recently, I was in the car of a friend whose cottage is one of over 300 occupying a beautiful wooded point extending out into a lake famous as a summer resort. As we drove along the winding gravel road leading off the point, he flipped his cigarette butt out the open car window, not even looking to see if it fell on the road or into the debris of early summer, half new growth, half tinder of last year's leaves. Having just a day or two before had an airplane view of one of the season's deadliest forest fires, I cried out and asked him to back up and find the butt. He laughed and said he had no fear of the woods at this early hour of the morning, when the ground was wet with dew.

Fortunately, we drove back from the general store less than 15 minutes later. The spot on which the butt had fallen was one of the particular little patches on which the morning sun had played, and the dew was gone. The butt had landed, as far as I could figure, in a cluster of last year's dead bracken. We saw the smoke of the fire several hundred yards before we reached the scene. Only about 30 square yards of ground litter and small underbrush were burning, and we were able to beat it out—in a frantic way, I assure you. Five more yards and the fire would have been into a clump of spruces. And from there possibly the entire point and its 300 cottages would have gone up in a roaring inferno, fanned by a fresh morning westerly breeze.

* * *

The cigarette may or may not be suspect as a cause of cancer. But there can be no question that it is more than suspect as a cause of countless forest and sub-marginal forest fires that cost us all money in the loss of an important wage-earning public asset, whether we lose our cottages or not.

Under the Dome

By RAY BAINES
Colonist Legislative Reporter

MOST observers of British Columbia government activities will agree that Premier W. A. C. Bennett and his cabinet have made a wise choice in Dr. Henry F. Angus for Public Utilities Commission chairman. They will probably go farther and [illegible] ernment might indeed be grateful for Dr. Angus' acceptance of the job.

A distinguished scholar in economics, and the political and social sciences, Dr. Angus will bring to PUC deliberations a degree of objectivity and wisdom that, through no fault of the present members, it may have lacked in the past.

And no one can accuse the premier of making a political appointment. Dr. Angus is one of those scholars who may have political leanings but has avoided political affiliations. Students who attended his lectures at the University of B.C. will recall his great knowledge of political science and government. But few will recall any intentional or unintentional bias which may have given him away.

* * *

In his lectures he was scholarly but not pedantic. He saw humor in politics but he didn't treat the subject lightly. While he recognized the folly in some political activity, he was not cynical about it. He saw democratic government as a cherished tradition as well as a practical system of rule. But he saw its human weaknesses.

Anyone who heard his analyses in the classroom will feel confident that he will bring the same kind of flexible objectivity to the PUC conference table.

The recent history of the PUC has hardly been peaceable. The duties of the commission do not lend themselves easily to sweetness and light at any time. You can't please people by granting a public utility a rate increase, no matter how legitimate the company's claim may be. Any decision is a bombshell. Each time the dust settles the PUC picks itself up and starts over again. There is always another decision to be made and another explosion.

* * *

Percy George has had three years of it and he has asked the government to relieve him as chairman. As an ordinary member he can help make decisions, but not have the heavy responsibility of casting the key vote.

Mr. George had it tough from the start. His appointment in January, 1952, by the Coalition government was frankly political. After seven years as mayor of Victoria, Mr. George accepted a nomination as the Liberal candidate in the 1951 Esquimalt by-election. When he was soundly defeated by CCF candidate Frank Mitchell, Mr. George was then just a former mayor and a would-be MLA. Though he proved a capable and sincere worker, his appointment was regarded as a pay-off. No matter how objective Mr. George's decisions may have been, many people could not forget the political tie-up.

But if Mr. George was unwise in any of his judgments, it was not through lack of sincerity and diligence.

* * *

If the disfavor of an apparent political appointment wasn't enough Mr. George ran into his first trouble within the commission itself. Open warfare developed later in 1952 when D. K. Penfold, one of the members who had been on the commission since 1949, disagreed publicly with one of Mr. George's rulings at a telephone company hearing in the Okanagan.

The two bickered openly for several weeks. Mr. George accused his fellow commissioner of, among other things, refusing to co-operate. It finally blew over and the PUC has functioned, at least on the surface, fairly smoothly since.

The most recent hassle was a lulu. After careful deliberation the PUC granted the B.C. Electric a bus fare increase in Vancouver and allowed it to cut service in Victoria. But the B.C. Court of Appeal reversed the PUC decision after an organized protest carried the decision to court. Demands that Mr. George and his commission resign followed thick and fast. He said he wouldn't. Various groups in Vancouver then demanded that Premier Bennett fire the commission and appoint a new one. There it stood until now. I don't think it would be incorrect to say that Premier Bennett considered firing the PUC. But he didn't want to, and, as it turned out, he didn't have to.

* * *

First Russell Potter resigned to take another job. That was May 2. Then Mr. George was ordered into hospital by his doctor when the pressure caught up with him and he suffered a breakdown. Recovered now, he has voluntarily stepped down from the key spot.

This worked out beautifully for the premier. He has filled the vacancy created by Mr. George with a new chairman. He has found a good one, too. And Mr. George moves into the spot just vacated by Mr. Potter, so, voila, everyone is happy.

In the meantime, both the public utilities and the public can expect wisdom and fairness when Dr. Angus takes over June 13.

Letters to the Editor

Cure for Idleness

Since juvenile delinquency is uppermost in the minds of social workers and parents today, the following is submitted from an English publication, by Jelinger Symons, BA, an inspector of schools:

"At Parkhurst prison there is a preliminary probationary stage, which is quasi-penal. I say quasi-penal, because there is no other correctional discipline than that which consists in being confined to cells with books for somewhat less than two hours, chiefly during meal times, the rest of the day being spent in school and exercise, together with the other boys in the same ward. This continues for four months.

"After this they pass immediately into the industrial wards, where nearly the whole day is occupied in useful industrial labor. They dine, work and have short intervals for recreation together. Spade husbandy, cattle tending, brick making, baking, carpentering, painting, black smith's work, flax dressing, tailoring, shoemaking and laundering, constitute the employments in which they are instructed by skilled persons.

"Warders constantly superintend them. The chaplains pray with and address them collectively for half an hour every morning and speak to them individually. Each prisoner has instruction in school about nine hours in the week and every evening the most deserving lads are allowed to read or write, or converse together in the schoolroom, for one hour before evening prayers. Each boy has access to the chaplain at pleasure.

"Punishments also are administered for offenses committed in the establishment, with the sanction of the governor, and rewards are given chiefly by means of good conduct and labor marks, which are credited in money earnings to each inmate. Order, neatness, regularity, cleanliness, and obedience are enforced under a quiet but exact discipline.

"The sytem of industrial training is one of the most perfect in England. It is the life spring of the whole process of reformation. The governor and chaplains attribute much of the success which attends the institution to this element. It is certainly peculiarly adapated to the correction of those abnormal and desultory habits which are the great charm and characteristic of vagabond and criminal life. Nothing will thoroughly eradicate this bane, short of systematic labor. Compulsory and habitual industry is indispensable to the cure of a disease in which idleness is incarnate, and of which it is often the root."

The above is an extract from the Journal of the Royal Society of Arts dated May 2, 1885; repeat, 1885. What can our modern psychiastrists show us as an improvement on the above over the past hundred years?

Solarium Fund

Considering the difficulty of getting mothers of children to canvass for the Solarium funds might I suggest that these funds should be raised without canvassing the many people who are unable to contribute.

Let the family allowance for one month be given to the Solarium and not always asking others to pay towards their children's welfare. Nowadays father and mother are out working, so let those people give generously.

Head of Home-School Body, Red's Wife Refuses To Quit

WINNIPEG (CP) — A woman whose husband heads the Labor-Progressive (Communist) party in Manitoba has rejected a suggestion that she resign the presidency of a Winnipeg home and school association.

"I cannot resign right now because there is a principle involved," Mrs. Anne Ross told a special meeting of the Inkster Home and School association Thursday night.

Mrs. Ross became the centre of controversy following a Winnipeg Free Press article last month which said that key Manitoba Communists had won executive positions in the association.

ASK BRANCH BE CLOSED

The meeting was called when 200 parents who are not members of the association signed a petition calling for closing of the Inkster Home and School branch.

"Are you going to deny me the right to serve because I happen to be the wife of a man whose politics The Free Press doesn't agree with?" Mrs. Ross asked.

She made the statement after Ald. Peter Taraska, who is not a member of the association but who has two children attending the Inkster school, said: "If I were the president of the association I'd quit before they get a chance to fire me."

The meeting ended with no decision being made, on a motion by William Ross, the president's husband. There was no indication of what the next step will be.

The Manitoba Home and School Federation, the parent body, said it could take no action because the petition was from a group of parents outside the association.

Eat Your Troubles Away

Plenty To Eat Doesn't Mean You're Fed Right

By LELORD KORDEL

These who are undernourished and don't realize it will find a guide to better health and greater vigor in "Eat Your Troubles Away," latest work by Leland Kordel, researcher and lecturer on nutrition, appearing regularly in The Daily Colonist.

Dr. C. W. Cavanaugh of Cornell University confirmed what I had been teaching for years when he said, "The fact is, there is only one major disease, and that is malnutrition."

Why should malnutrition continue to haunt us in lands where we enjoy the highest standard of living ever devised by man?

Primitive peoples were not plagued by malnutrition. As late as 30 years ago, Dr. Weston A. Price found healthy primitive people, untouched by so-called civilization, in an isolated part of the Swiss Alps, on the Isle of Man, in the New Hebrides, Australia, New Zealand, central Africa, the South American jungles, northern Canada and Alaska, and on various South Pacific isles.

Their diets met every body requirement, and they had not devised a method of refining, preserving, or distributing their food.

Dr. Price describes these people as possessing erect posture, unbelieveable endurance, excellent bone structure with good teeth and jaw development, bodies free from disease, and cheerful, even dispositions. They had no cancer, ulcers, high blood pressure, heart and kidney diseases, tuberculosis, polio, multiple sclerosis, muscular dystrophy, or cerebral palsy. They had no physicians, surgeons, or psychiatrists.

And Dr. Michael Walsh, in his recent study of the unusual health of Indians in an isolated district of Mexico without even a water supply, found that their only beverage of catus juice was as rich in vitamin C as a dozen glasses of fresh orange juice. These Indians were free from disease. Yet, in the more populated areas of Mexico, Dr. Walsh found every disease he had the heart to look for.

In our modern world there are at least five major factors which interfere with the old established balance and cause widespread malnutrition. Three of these are factors which we can only control indirectly. The first factor is a failure of the soil—causing the same illnesses and starvations which have plagued China and India.

The second factor is the loss of self-sufficiency in a local culture. The primitive peoples are healthy because they are local cultures. North America, however, hasn't had a local culture since the Indians roamed across the plains.

We borrow our favorite dishes from every country, most of the time serving them improperly cooked and complemented by the wrong foods to heighten their taste or to aid in digestion.

In France, the country of gourmets, salads and fruit desserts will balance a rich entree. A Frenchman leaves his table feeling satisfied, but never stuffed. Compare the delicate balance of French cuisine to the heavy desserts of pie and cake some of us pile on top of meat and potatoes!

As to what we should eat and why, Dr. Robert S. Harris of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology finds many people are confused on the subject of nutrition. Complicating our difficulty of not having a compelling direction in our choice of food is the wide variety of fresh and processed foods available. While some of these foods are nutritive, many are indifferent, or even bad. How to distinguish among them?

Growing sophistication in diet is the third factor in malnutrition. Processed foods replace the outmoded customs of home baking, home preservation of fruits and vegetables, and home butchering. In many cases, they even replace the cooking. That is one of the reasons why they are more expensive. They offer the services of pre-preparation and pre-cooking. But do they replace the nutrients? Generally, they do not.

Glamorous new foods are being made available by modern technology, and made attractive by modern marketing techniques, yet are frequently inadequate.

Dr. Harris points out that their variety is confusing. Lacking the motives that a national tradition would be able to give us in our selection, we are helpless against any suspect sales talk or trick.

"A check-out counter in a super-market piled high with foolish doodads, with shrewd heed by the management to 'impulse buying,' clinches a purchase that benefits neither the pocketbook nor the health," Dr. Harris says.

Primitive peoples are close to the soil and with an uncanny instinct choose from it the edibles that promote their health. Though ignorant of the science of nutrition, they use their more limited resources intelligently.

Layers of sophistication have removed us from our instincts—even the instincts of our pioneer forefathers who never felt want for meat and protein because of the found in bounteous supply.

Children's Release Sought

Three Reformed Doukhobor mothers met Attorney-General Robert Bonner yesterday to plead for the release of some 75 Doukhobor children being educated by the government at New Denver.

The children were seized last year and sent to school forcibly when their Sons of Freedom parents refused to send them.

The three Doukhobor women, Mrs. Mary Sheratobetoff, Mrs. Tina Zmaeff and Mrs. Nastia Barisoff, said Mr. Bonner listened to their plea carefully and was "very kind and tolerant." But he told them, the women said, he could not release their children. Five of their 12 children are among those at New Denver.

This is the fourth delegation of Doukhobor women to approach the government for release of the youngsters.

In their presentation, the women said their "hearts are broken." They termed the forced education "highly abnormal" and "inhuman and sadistic persecution of innocent children."

Bureaucratic Dangers Emphasized

The need for an information program to stress dangers that could arise from bureaucratic supervision of pharmacy in the event of a socialized health service was emphasized Thursday by G. A. Elliott of Kelowna, in his president's report to the Pharmaceutical Association of B.C.

The association, in convention at the Empress Hotel, was assured, however, that its executive council was not opposed to the principle of health insurance in connection with pharmacy. The executive said it was concerned only for the protection of its members in their position of responsibility to the public.

G. A. Elliott, Kelowna, was re-elected president for a second term as the convention of the Pharmaceutical Association ended here yesterday.

Douglas Denholm of Vancouver, elected vice-president.

City Council Approves Talks Over Water

The public works committee recommended to city council Thursday that the city enter into discussions with the Greater Victoria water district, the transport department and the Brentwood water district with a view to turning the Elk lake water supply over to the Greater Victoria water district.

The recommendation was approved.

Disaster Survivor To Speak

Rev. Donald Orth, one of the few survivors of a Japanese ferry disaster last September in which more than 1,000 persons perished, will speak at the evening service Sunday in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Following the service he will show pictures taken in Japan.

Mr. Orth, a United Church minister who has been in Japan for the last three years engaged in agricultural work and rural evangelism, was aboard the ferry Toya Maru when it was struck by a typhoon and capsized.

A graduate of Ontario Agricultural College in Guelph, he was ordained in the United Church four years ago.

He plans to return to his home in Harley, Ont., following his appearance in Victoria.

Cleric Buried At Oshawa

Rev. R. Lorne McTavish, well-known United Church clergyman, was buried at Oshawa Tuesday, according to a letter received by his sister here, Mrs. Jessie Nelson, 717 McClure.

Well-known in Victoria, Dr. McTavish had spent many summer vacation periods here.

He had charges at Moose Jaw, Saskatoon, Winnipeg, Regina, Kenora and Oshawa and had been president of the Saskatchewan United Church Conference.

Paths Chosen By Graduates

Most of the students graduating this month from Greater Victoria's five senior high schools have decided on their future callings, school officials said yesterday.

Many of the boys, they said, plan to enter the armed services and many of the girls, the teaching or nursing professions. A large percentage of both boys and girls will continue their education.

About 485 students will graduate from the district's high schools.

Three Themes

REV. D. C. O'CONNELL

Message from the Minister

No Place for One-Track Mind

This is the eighth in a series of messages from Greater Victoria churchmen that will appear each week in The Daily Colonist's church page.

By REV. D. C. O'CONNELL
St. Peter's Anglican Church

There has been always a tendency among people to over emphasize one aspect of any matter under consideration. Theologians have shown themselves particularly prone to do this, hence many of the heresies through the centuries.

For example, those who so emphasized the divinity of our Lord that they overlooked His humanity. And others who, in stressing Christ's human nature, overlooked His divinity.

We are all inclined to be one-track minded. Even in our school days we can remember the "book-worm" and the "athlete." There is no reason why these two [illegible] mutually exclusive, but that was very often the case.

As we grow older we find people who think physical beauty is the be-all and end-all of life. Others despise education and hurl the invective "egg-head" at all intellectuals. Some would have us believe that Joe Di Maggio is more to be admired than the president of the United States.

In this sphere of thinking there lies a trap for the unwary Christian. We should view the human being at all times with three themes in mind: body, mind and spirit.

The Gospel shows us that these were in perfect harmony in the person of Jesus Christ; and not only in His own person but also in the way in which He treated everyone with whom He came into contact.

We do well to keep this thought continually before us, for Christians have made grievous errors through overemphasis of any one of these themes.

1. There is the temptation to think that the church is and should be concerned solely with man's spirit.

2. The temptation of reformers to claim that Christ preached only a "social gospel" concerned with the welfare of men's minds and bodies, leaving out the spirit entirely.

3. The temptation to mental orthodoxy, to think the Christian faith correctly without any consequent bearing on one's manner of life.

The answer to all this is clearly written in Christ's life and words in the accounts of the four evangelists:

1. Jesus fed the hungry multitude because He was concerned with the body as well as the mind and spirit.

2. Jesus warned them later [illegible] with the body when He said: "Ye seek me because ye did eat of the loaves and were filled," and, "Labor not for the meat that perisheth."

3. The outwardly correct Pharisees were rebuked because of their narrow intolerance. "Ye tithe mint and rue and all manner of herbs and pass over judgment and the love of God."

People sometimes say when the church speaks out on social or intellectual problems: "Why doesn't the church mind its own business?"

She is minding her own business. Fishers of men, not men's souls but the whole man—body, mind and spirit.

If we are to strive to emulate "Let that mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus," then we must preserve that true balance which views man as he is on this earth: a physical body capable of hunger, pain and weariness; possessing a mind that is to be utilized to the best of his ability, and directed by an immortal spirit that is his connecting link with God, the Holy Spirit.

Merger of Lutherans Considered Certain

SASKATOON (CP)—Dr. O. G. Malmin of Minneapolis, Minn., editor of the Evangelical Lutheran Church's official magazine, said Friday that unless something unforeseen occurs this year, the four Lutheran churches in North America will merge into one.

Dr. Malmin, a member of the church's committee on policy and organization, made the statement in a progress report to the Evangelical Church's biennial convention.

He said articles of incorporation and a constitution for the four churches have been substantially approved by the joint union committee. "We had better make up our minds that the merger is coming," he said. "It's not a matter of if, but when."

The merger, already approved in principle by the four churches, involves the American Lutheran Church, the Lutheran Free Church, the United Evangelical Lutheran Church, and the Evangelical Lutheran Church.

Drivers Urged To Go by Bus

VANCOUVER (CP)—A plea to motorists not to drive their cars to work in downtown Vancouver was issued here Thursday by Tempest deWolf, managing director of the Downtown Parking Corporation, which operates lots all over the city centre area.

Mr. deWolf, in a statement, said people working downtown are crowding out parking space normally used by shoppers.

Reconciliation Of Nations Predicted

Christian Scientists forecast victory for lovers of freedom, declaring that the way is being paved for "the reconciliation of all nations and for the reign of harmony on earth."

Prediction was made by directors during the annual meeting of the Mother Church, First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston last week, attended by more than 7,500 members from all parts of the world.

In a keynote address, Mrs. Gertrude W. Eiseman, named president of the church at the meeting, said churches can do tremendous good to help mankind cope with contemporary problems and to establish the effectiveness of healing "according to the pattern of the Christ."

Community Support Urged To Ensure Plan's Success

PORT ALBERNI—Miss Mary Pack, executive secretary of the B.C. section of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, told a public meeting, in Port Alberni council chambers, that the support of the community is essential for the success of the society's program.

C.A.R.S. is not a charity, but an investment she said. She told of patients who had become self-supporting through the organization's efforts, and she called on her audience to invest time and talent in the program.

Help of volunteers from each community makes it possible for the physiotherapist to devote her time to physical treatment of the patients, Miss Pack added.

Arthritis, she stated, has never been studied before on the scale on which C.A.R.S. is basing its research program. Each physiotherapist keeps records of her patients and these are proving valuable in the search for cause and cure of the disease.

This year the B.C. section is operating on a $341,000 budget, $110,000 of the amount is a direct grant from the provincial government and the remainder is to be made up from patients' fees and donations.

In the seven years since its organization, C.A.R.S. has proved that something can be done for the arthritic sufferer. While it is impossible to measure what has been done in prevention, the society has been successful in returning many crippled patients to active life, Miss Pack said.

Miss Pack was introduced by Ald. Jack Perry, president of Alberni Valley branch of the society.

B.C. Federation Challenged

New Farmers Group Throws the Gauntlet

DUNCAN—Jake Schulz, past president of the Union of Manitoba and chairman of the Interprovincial Farm Union Council, is scheduled to address three organization meetings on Vancouver Island in advance of the provincial organization's convention at Chilliwack June 27 and 28.

Waldo D. Summers is the organizer for the group which is new to B.C.

NO DUNCAN SPONSOR

Archie Stevenson will act as chairman at the Duncan meeting Wednesday. Other meetings on Vancouver Island will be held at Courtenay Monday, sponsored by the Farmers' Institute, and at Cedar Tuesday, sponsored by a group of farmers. Mr. Summers did not name any organization as sponsoring the Duncan meeting.

The new organization was given a challenge here at a two-day semi-annual meeting of directors of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture, Monday and Tuesday.

C. E. S. Walls, secretary-manager of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture, said that the organization was on trial through a falling off in returns for farm produce during 1954 which amounted to $8,000,000, a fact which meant an increase in production costs of 20 per cent during the year.

FRUSTRATED FARMERS

"There is little wonder that B.C. farmers have today a feeling of frustration and that a small minority show a tendency to look for a scapegoat," he said. "And so there are those who say the trouble is we are not properly organized, so let's start something new.

"They are so imbued with expectations . . . they are quite prepared to pay this untried body several times the amount of the annual fee they have paid indirectly to the federation through their local agricultural associations and co-operatives.

"In other words, the B.C. Federation of Agriculture today finds itself on trial—and we accept the challenge."

After a lengthy report of progress made by the federation in its handling of farmers' affairs, Mr. Walls asked, "Are the farmers in this province content to dissipate the past five years of federation activity and expansion in order to follow the tune of some Pied Piper of Hamlin?"

Water Supply Warning Sounded

PARKSVILLE—A report on Parksville's potential water supply, given at the regular meeting of commissioners, by engineer C. F. Newcombe of Nanaimo, showed that the present springs are inadequate for any great increase in water consumption.

The report stated that if the village limit is to be extended the supply will have to be augmented from Englishman river.

Estimated cost of this extension would be about $30,000.

Repeated requests from property owners south of the village limits to be taken into the municipality led to the survey.

Commissioner W. L. Kleaman was appointed to locate a suitable site for a new fire hall.

It was decided to make a grant of $10 each to the Salvation Army and Canadian Institute for the Blind.

Commission chairman R. M. Young and H. J. Parsley will represent Parksville at the meeting of the Association of Vancouver Island Municipalities at Duncan, June 22.

Lois Eckstein, Alberni, received a $200 Players' Club Alumni proficiency scholarship, and Ellen A. Arnet, Port Alberni, entering her final year in pharmacy, won the Charles E. Frosst scholarship of $125 for general proficiency and leadership.

Announced previously were the Timber Preservers Ltd. prizes, with Donald Redding Murray receiving $25 in recognition of his coming third in the graduating class in civil engineering.

VALETTA, Malta (AP)—The Yugoslav training ship Galeb arrived Friday for a four-day tour despite Maltese government protests the visit should be cancelled on the grounds President Tito is anti-Catholic.

Two Remanded on Theft Charges

NANAIMO—Benjamin Buchanan and James Mills, who were remanded earlier this week when they appeared in police court on a charge of breaking and entering and theft, were further remanded until June 17, when they appeared in court Thursday.

Const. William Healey, representing the Crown, said the charge would be changed to one of theft and possession.

The two men were picked up on Nicol street following the alleged theft, in a state of intoxication. At the previous hearing Buchanan pleaded not guilty to the drunk charge but admitted the charge Thursday and was fined $10 and costs. Mills pleaded guilty and was fined June 5.

Basilio Wins Title On TKO Victory In Bruising Battle

By MURRAY ROSE

SYRACUSE (AP) — Carmen Basilio ended welterweight champion Tony DeMaro's reign at one fight and 70 days Friday night by pounding out a technical knockout in 1:52 of the 12th round at War Memorial Auditorium.

A 17-to-10 favorite, the 28-year-old ex-marine from nearby Canastota touched off a wild scene by dropping the 23-year-old Bostonian twice in the 10th round to turn the tide of a fiery and bloody scrap.

After that, Basilio, getting his second shot at the title that barely eluded him 21 months ago against Kid Gavilan, calmly went after the lion-hearted champion.

He chopped away with both hands to the bleeding face of the wobbling but still firing champion until referee Harry Kessler stepped in and wrapped his arms around the gallant defender.

The pro-Basilio capacity crowd of 9,170, which paid $119,794, let loose with a roar when Basilio's arm was raised in triumph.

Basilio's mother and wife climbed into the ring to kiss the new champion, who also was bleeding from cuts.

Both fighters are solid left-hookers but it was a right by Basilio which sent the aggressive DeMarco to the canvas for the first time. They were mixing it up in a brisk exchange when Basilio suddenly staggered the Bostonian with a right to the jaw.

Tearing after his stricken foe, Basilio shot over two more rights to the jaw and down went Tony for seven. Blood streaming from cuts over both eyes and his nose, DeMarco got up and ran into another salvo. A left hook sent him onto his back.

Game as they come, DeMarco wobbled to his feet again at seven.

Somehow he managed to last out the round. Dr. Charles Heck examined him between rounds and it seemed that the champion wouldn't be able to come out for the 11th.

But come out he did and he came out swinging, evidently hoping for a knockout. However, Basilio worked carefully on DeMarco's battered features until Kessler intervened.

DeMarco's reign was the second shortest in modern welterweight annals and he became the 11th champion to lose the crown in his first defence. Johnny Bratton only held the 147-pound title 65 days in 1951.

Carmen Realizes Boyhood Dream

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Carmen Basilio, the new welterweight champion, took it in stride Friday night when he wrapped up and tucked away "the dream I've had since I was a little boy" by pummeling Tony DeMarco off the throne in 12 gruelling rounds.

Perhaps the mayor of Boston, John Hynes, told the story of DeMarco's gameness most simply when he told the near-crying ex-champion in his dressing room:

"A true Bostonian never quits."

Basilio's dressing room was bedlam. Well-wishers jostled the new champion into a corner until he had to beg for some people to please leave and "let me get some air."

Basilio had small cuts over both his eyes and two tiny cuts inside his mouth. But his handlers said they never were dangerous.

Carmen was breathing easily. His first words to the crowd as he posed for pictures were "Somebody say something funny so I'll smile."

"GAME, TOUGH"

Of DeMarco, Basilio said: "He was a game, tough, hard fighter."

Basilio said the early rounds were the hardest, but that he knew he had won by the rough 10th round in which he dumped DeMarco to the canvas twice.

Although DeMarco came back and back and back, refusing to quit, he had no alibi.

Speaking so softly it was almost a whisper and obviously having trouble keeping back the tears, Tony declared:

"I have no excuses. He threw some good punches and I went to pieces and that was it."

The win moved the Pils into a second-place tie with Mount Pleasant Indians, seven points behind the top-running Victoria Shamrocks.

Vancouver's regular goalkeeper Ron Delmonico was replaced for Friday night's game by Bud Peterson, a 24-year-old spare netminder for the last two seasons.

Although New Westminster led 5-0 in the first period, Peterson shone for most of the game and in the final frame kicked out 12 shots.

Ted Hunt was top scorer for Vancouver. He boomed in five of the 18 goals. He was given five penalties, including a five-minute misconduct.

Wirkowski led the Argos to the Grey Cup in 1952 but he was the main target of angry fans the following two seasons when Toronto failed to click.

New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers, kingpins in the major league races, showed two of their more pressing pursuers how it's done Friday night. The Yanks rapped the back-sliding Cleveland Indians 3-2 and the Dodgers slammed Chicago Cubs with three home runs 7-0.

That pushed the New Yorkers 5½ games up on the rain-idled Chicago White Sox in the American League, and 6½ games over the Indians.

Brooklyn's National League lead grew to 9½ games over the Cubs as righthander Carl Erskine, winning his eighth, Peewee Reese and Roy Campanella homered. It was the first in the majors for the veteran Erskine. Camp's was No. 18 this season, giving him the major league lead.

New York's third-place Giants beat St. Louis Cardinals 2-1 on rookie Gail Harris' home run in the eighth. The only other NL game scheduled, Milwaukee at Pittsburgh, was rained out.

In an American League day game, Ted Williams homered twice as Boston Red Sox won its fifth straight, beating Detroit 5-2.

Erskine choked off the Cubs on four hits and walked but one. The Brooks had just five hits off loser Sam Jones, Dave Hillman and John Andre, but were helped by seven walks and two errors in addition to the home runs.

Jim Konstanty wrapped things up for the Yanks, stepping in from the bull pen for the eighth time in 10 games to retire the last two batters with the tying and winning runs on base. Singles by Gil McDougald, Andy Carey and Mickey Mantle broke up a 1-1 tie with two runs in the Yank seventh.

Tommy Byrne, who also had help from Bobby Morgan, won his third to give New York the jump in the four-game Cleveland series. Mike Gardia was the loser.

It was the second homer of Harris' brief major league career that snapped a 1-1 tie and beat the Cards, who fell to seventh behind idle Philadelphia. It was the 10th Giant hit off rookie Luis Arroyo who now has lost two after winning six straight. Jim Hearn gave nine hits while winning his seventh as the Cards left 12 men on base. New York stranded 11.

Williams slugged his homers on the first two trips to the plate. The second came with a man on as thumpin' Ted made his first 1955 appearance at his favorite park. He won the 1941 all-star game at Briggs Stadium with a ninth-inning home run, and got 8-for-9 last season after being out with his broken collarbone.

First Athletes Named To New Hall of Fame

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian sports Hall of Fame to perpetuate the memory of Canada's great athletes was formally established Friday. It will open Aug. 26 at its permanent site at the Canadian National Exhibition here.

Two Victoria residents—basketball player Norm Baker and soccer star Dave Turner—and Victoria-born cyclist Torchy Peden were included among athletes named yesterday to Canada's new sports Hall of Fame.

Ladder Half Filled With Two Days Left

Fishing continued on the slow side in Saanich Inlet yesterday with only seven anglers weighing in salmon for the second week of qualifying fishing in the annual Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association ladder derby.

Only two salmon were entered in the weekly competition Thursday for a two-day total of nine.

Topping yesterday's list was a 12-pound, 10-ounce catch landed by W. I. Shillington who took sixth place on the ladder. The six other fish ranged from a six-pound, 10-ounce spring caught by F. D. Nuttall to a three pound, three ounce fish weighed in by hopeful Chuck Farrar.

Only 25 of the 50 qualifying rungs for the second week have been filled but with fine weather expected over the week end, a good number of anglers will undoubtedly be out to try for one of the 50 rungs on the weekly ladder and a berth in the August 21 fish-off.

Firefighters	1	6	.143
Foresters	1	7	.125

Firefighters chalked up their first victory of the season and climbed out of the senior "B" men's softball league cellar last night by edging Esquimalt Athletics, 7-6, at Heywood Avenue park.

Ben McKerns trotted home with the winning run in the bottom of the ninth inning after Herb Wetherall had walked with the bases loaded. Wetherall smashed a home run in the fifth inning for Firefighters' big blow of the game.

Shoot Sunday At Gun Club

Victoria Gun Club, which will be host to the British Columbia trap-shooting championships July 1-3, will hold a shoot for legs on skeet club trophies at its Albert Head road layout Sunday afternoon.

Members will also compete in a handicap trap event for a leg on the Humber Trophy and open practice shoots will be held. Firing gets under way at 1.00. Ammunition and refreshments will be available at the grounds.

Stockers Roll at Speedway Tonight

Typical of the start of the 25-lap main events in stock car meets at Western Speedway is this view of the cars jammed up waiting for the green flag of the starter to signal the start of the race. Positions are determined by the time the drivers record in the time trials and the slower cars are put at the head of the field with the faster cars in the rear under the reverse system of starting. Close to 20 cars are expected to be on hand for tonight's main event at the Millstream road track where time trials get under way at 7.30 p.m.

Harbert, Furgol Grab Lead in International

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States two-man team of Chick Harbert and Ed Furgol took a one-stroke lead over a tightly bunched field at the half-way mark of the international golf championships Friday as Belgian and Irish golfers highlighted the individual competition by firing four-under-par 66s, equalling the course record.

Harbert's 69 and Furgol's 70 Friday gave them a combined 36-hole total of 282, one stroke ahead of the Belgian and Argentine teams.

Flory Van Donck's spectacular 66 shot him three strokes ahead of Harbert and Argentina's Roberto de Vincenzo in individual competition with a 136, but the 73 turned in by teammate Arthur de Vulder gave the Belgian team its 283. De Vicenzo's 69 and Antonio Cerda's 70 brought the Argentines their second-place tie.

Pat Fletcher of Saskatoon and Stan Leonard of Vancouver both shot 71s to move Canada into a 10-place tie in the 25-team field at 292. The Canadians had been tied for 13th Thursday on Fletcher's 74 and Leonard's 75.

The 66 by Ireland's Harry Bradshaw moved his team into a fourth-place tie with Australia's defending champions at 285.

The Australians, four strokes ahead of the U.S. pair on opening day, faded as Peter Thomson blew to a 74 after leading Thursday's field with a 67. Ken Nagle shot his second straight 72 to complete the team's total.

Spectacular iron play marked Van Donck's 66 as he needed only one putt on eight holes. The Belgian never was in the rough throughout the entire 6,510-yard Columbia Country Club course.

Next games today: Farmers vs. Duncan, Royal Athletic park, 2.30. Eagles vs. Capitals, Royal Athletic park, 6.30.

Farmer Construction, which blanked Capitals, 13-0, on a one-hitter by Fred Christianson Thursday night, will go after its 11th straight victory of the season today when it meets Duncan in a Lower Island Senior Amateur Baseball League contest at Royal Athletic park at 2.30.

Eagles and Capitals, tied for second place six-and-a-half games behind the undefeated Farmers, will meet at the Caledonia enclosure tonight at 6.30 p.m.

A scratch single by Dave Ready in the second inning spoiled Christianson's bid for his second no-hitter of the season Thursday night. Lowell Hodges led Farmers' 10-hit attack on two pitchers with a pair of singles.

At Duncan, Eagles battled to a 3-3 tie with the up-Island team in a game that was called after nine innings because of darkness.

South Africans Far Behind In First Test

NOTTINGHAM, England (Reuters)—England's two crack bowlers took five wickets for 83 runs in the second day of the first test match against South Africa here Friday and left the opposing cricketers in danger of a follow-on unless they score heavily today.

Shaken by the bowling of Frank Tyson and Brian Statham, the South Africans now must make 102 more runs on the remaining five wickets or be ordered to continue batting when their first inning ends. England's team outstripped them badly with a first innings score of 334.

Earlier in the day, in brighter conditions, England lost its six remaining wickets in three hours, adding 90 runs to its overnight score of 244 for four.

Junior Shamrocks stayed right behind the defending champion Foul Bay by whipping Navy, 9-3, in a senior "B" lacrosse league game at Stevenson park Thursday night.

Shamrock goalie Dave Unwin blanked the sailors in the first two periods while the winners were running up a 5-0 lead. Don Bath of Navy scored twice in the third frame to cut The Shamrock margin to 5-2 but the winners outscored the sailors 4-1 in the final session.

JAROSLAV DROBNY

Odds Stacked Against Czech Star Repeating Triumph at Wimbledon

LONDON (CP) — Wimbledon this year poses the question whether Jaroslav Drobny can do it again.

The odds are stacked heavily against "Old Drob," long the sentimental favorite of the centre court.

There hasn't been a repeater since Don Budge did it in 1937-38. And Drobny, troubled with a bothersome appendix, hasn't been a ball of fire on the courts this season.

"I'm not backing him, but I would back nobody to beat him," said one expert, running through the list of candidates for Drobny's crown at this 69th Wimbledon, classic of the tennis world. There are 127 entries in the men's singles, running June 20 to July 2. There are 97 women competing for the title made vacant when Maureen Connolly called it quits.

TOUGH PROPOSITION

The records show—and the stocky former Czech hockey player would agree—that it is a tough proposition winning Wimbledon even once. Drobny, who entered Wimbledon first in 1938 at 17, made the grade last year in his third finals appearance by beating Ken Rosewall.

With the exception of Vic Seixas and Budge Patty, the American from Paris, none of the current international top-liners have won Wimbledon.

Seixas and Patty will be back. Tony Trabert, Lew Hoad, Rosewall, Mervyn Rose, Sven Davidson and Rex Hartwig will be seeking their first victories.

HARD-LUCK CAREER

Drobny now is 33. Seeded 11th last year, the bespectacled player with all the strokes dropped everything but the singles to win, capping a hard-luck career with success.

A ballboy in Prague at six, Drobny made his second Wimbledon appearance in 1939, losing to Bunny Austin when he suffered a strained shoulder. The Second World War halted his progress—he shone more at hockey although he held the Czech singles title for 10 years in a row—and he came back to Wimbledon after the war, reaching the finals in 1949 against Ted Schroeder. A year earlier he helped Czechoslovakia win the Olympic hockey title.

After the finals, he skipped his country because of the Communist regime, accepting Egyptian citizenship in 1950, and lost his second Wimbledon final in 1952 to Frank Sedgman.

The next year Drobny made two finals, losing to Seixas and Budge Patty. He would have been his big one—was a washout when a marathon 93-game match against Patty sidelined him with a torn muscle.

On his European form—on grass—Trabert is less highly regarded than Seixas. British experts tend to favor Hoad as the game's best despite temperamental failures in the last 12 months. Hartwig is another player of moods in contrast to Rosewall, a steady performer whose court craftmanship can be smashed by the power game.

Last night's score: Chinese Students 8, Victoria City 5.

Next game, Sunday: United Services vs. Arrow Furniture, Central park, 2.30 p.m.

Chinese Students, getting away to a good start with a five run outburst in the first inning, whipped Victoria City, 8-5, at Central park last night to climb into a third-place tie with their opponents in the senior "A" men's softball league.

Ellis Achtem picked up his fourth victory against two defeats by holding City to five hits. The winners collected seven hits off Dennis Beaulac and were aided by four errors, two of them coming in the first inning.

The Students sent nine batters to the plate in the first frame and banged out four hits including a two-run double by Tommy Derr. The losers stayed in contention until Students pulted into a 7-3 lead with single runs in each of the fifth and sixth frames.

STAGED RALLY

City staged a rally in the top of the ninth inning, Achtem walking three batters to load the bases with two out. However, a force at third snuffed out the rally with the winning run at the plate.

League-leading Cec Fletchers tangle with Arrow Furniture on Sunday at 2.30 p.m. at Central park.

Island Anglers Try Hard All Week But Can't Surpass Contest Leader

Aided by good weather, Vancouver Island anglers have been busy in the past week trying to topple leading contenders from top spots in The Daily Colonist's "King Fisherman" contest.

But Dr. W. J. Campbell of Victoria still leads in the spring salmon section with the 31-pound, nine-ounce beauty he hooked Tuesday night.

J. Burns of Alberni caught a 4½-pound cutthroat trout at Great Central lake last week, weighing in with John E. Burke, official weigher at the lake.

Outweighing his catch is the six-pound, 11½-ounce trout caught at Cowichan lake by Roy Carson of Lake Cowichan.

So far 83 fish have been entered in the contest—all springs with the exception of the two trout. Still no action is reported in the camps of the tyee and coho enthusiasts.

Leaders in each of the categories when the contest closes will be presented with King Fisherman trophies and $50 cash prizes in addition if they happened to be Colonist subscribers when they caught their big ones.

Colonist subscribers may enter all salmon five pounds and over and all trout two pounds and over in the weight draws for $50 cash prizes in each category.

Following are the latest spring salmon entries, most of them caught in Saanich inlet:

William Kirk, 2911 Shakespeare (18.3); Gerry Smith, 1115 Finlayson (15.15, 6.8, 5.7, 5).

W. I. Shillington, 3453 Quadra (12.10); George Heathfield, 4064 Finlayson (12.5); T. Harper, 1566 Despard (9.5); Glen Hayton, Langford (7.2); B. Colegrove, 2950 Millgrove (5.8, 7.1); Jerry Petrie, 37 Leigh road (7.1); G. Osborne, 3115 Rutledge (6); John Murray, 1526 Cedar Hill cross road (6.6); H. M. Hind, 759 Newport (7.5).

Peter Holmes and his wife are travelling with an expedition which aims to scale a 20,000-foot mountain in the Spity area of the Himalayas.

Cleaner Gets Board Order

Interference by Firm Barred

The Labor Relations Board yesterday ordered Page the Cleaner Ltd., 2929 Douglas, to do nothing to restrain its employees from joining a trade union.

The order was issued after a two-day hearing on "union-busting" charges laid by a group of former employees.

It is an outcome of a dispute started in mid-March when eight employees were laid off and nine others left the plant. The nine claimed they had left to get information from the labor board and were refused admission when they returned to work.

They were cut off from unemployment insurance benefits as having voluntarily left their employment, but this decision was reversed by an appeal in April on behalf of the nine workers, who were held to have been dismissed without just cause.

Information picket lines were posted at the outset by CCL and TLC labor councils and removed from the Page plant last week-end when the LRB hearing was arranged.

Following loss of their jobs, a number of workers joined the CCL Laundry Workers' Union.

At the outset of the dispute, owner R. W. Page said that the layoffs were forced by economic conditions.

'Alan Macfarlane, counsel for the firm, said there had been a lot of argument about very little. He said it was quite clear the present employees are satisfied and have so stated in a petition.

Young Dance Pupils On Stage Monday

BY BERT BINNY

Those dancing feet, close to 100 pairs of them in one number, are the order of the evening at the Royal Theatre Monday.

This is the occasion of Wynne Shaw's "Spring Fiesta," a gay, colorful dance revue, quite full of interest. It is under the sponsorship of three chapters of the IODE—Sir Mathew Baillie Begbie, Dr. Owen Jones and Royal Roads.

The program is varied and nicely balanced with items in tap, acrobatic and ballet by various age groups.

"The Circus" by younger dancers promises especial delight, as do the junior and senior "jazz" dances. A number entitled "Modern Dance" provides a departure from customary routines.

Four solo performers are featured — Carole Slater, Vivian Briggs, Nora Trimble and Gwen Gillie.

Gwen is now a dancer with nearly 10 years' experience behind her and, ahead of her, further studies at Toronto and an audition for the Royal Winnipeg Ballet.

Besides excursions beneath the big top and into the lands of make-believe and story books, the "Spring Fiesta" also visits Mexico and Switzerland with some 300 dancers appearing throughout a fast-moving program.

SPOKANE (AP)—A 3-month-old baby, seriously burned in a fire only five weeks ago, was carried from a flaming house again Thursday as flames swept across the roofs of two northside homes. The baby, Byran Link, was rescued from his crib by his mother, Mrs. William Link, and a neighbor woman. Mrs. Link also took out her two other children.

The child, unhurt in Thursday's blaze, still hasn't recovered from burns received when a mattress caught fire at the home last month.

Expert Wants Local 'Chest' To Channel Charity Appeals

By HARRY YOUNG

A welfare expert who believes that community chests across Canada can go a long way to reducing the multiplicity of charity appeals, is in Victoria today to meet officials of the Victoria Community Chest.

William M. Anderson, chairman of the executive committee of the Canadian Welfare Council, [illegible] of the Sun Life Assurance Company, is here to meet Courtney Hodges and Harry Gladwell, representing the local chest.

Mr. Anderson's committee is working out a system whereby national appeals—such as the Salvation Army, the Red Cross, the Cancer Society, the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society—can be made through the local community chests.

While Mr. Anderson is sound and [illegible] the views of community chests throughout the country [illegible] that the system [illegible] can be [illegible] possibly works.

MAIN PROBLEMS

The main problems are [illegible] of setting a national target for each national appeal and to make it [illegible] from year to year and [illegible] to the others and [illegible] to determine in what percentage funds are to be raised by local chests.

"An elaborate analysis is required," said Mr. Anderson who added that the methods of working out the appropriate shares at national and local levels were exceedingly complex.

In the United States where they have adopted these proposals the system of one appeal has been adopted by many cities.

The method likely to be most suitable in Canada, according to Mr. Anderson, is the continuation of existing community chest organizations operating on an expanded federation plan.

"They would leave the door open for any national appeal to be included," he said.

OTHER METHOD

The other method in the U.S. was the united appeal which took over all fund raising in the district and relegated the community chest to a welfare society that would do no soliciting on its own behalf.

"Where there's an active community chest it should be allowed to continue," said Mr. Anderson.

Tacoma logger Bert Thomas said yesterday he expects to make a third attempt to conquer Juan de Fuca Strait later this month over a new course being charted by his navigator, Captain Hugh Evans.

Temperatures Drop 21 Degrees

City Weather's Not So Hot But the Sun Still Shines

The weatherman turned off the heat yesterday and Victoria temperatures dropped 21 degrees, from a high of 88 Tuesday to a cool 67 degrees Friday.

Mostly sunny skies with temperatures around 65 and 70 are expected in Victoria this week-end.

Officials of the Dominion government weather office at Gonzales hill said a surge of Pacific caused coastal temperatures to drop 10 to 20 degrees Thursday. Cooler air was to continue spreading slowly southward to the Island at 4 p.m. today.

Sports Show Features Gear For Big-Uranium Hunting

Exhibits that promise to intrigue everyone, whether they be nine or 90, will be on display at the Western Canadian sportsmen's show which opens in Memorial Arena Tuesday evening.

The show is sponsored by The Daily Colonist.

Such diverse hobbies as yachting and uranium prospecting will be covered in the estimated 14,000 exhibits displayed by local and national firms.

Display items include the latest in outboard motors, rods, reels, lures, camping gear, sports clothes, boat lines, boat trailers and sporting displays.

All this will be combined with a colorful stage and water revue which features trained seals, a dog roper, trained chimpanzees, hunting and retrieving acts, swimming, a shooting display and fishing demonstrations.

The commercial displays will be open at 6 p.m. daily with the stage show at 8:15 p.m. On Saturday there will be a matinee with the doors opening at 1 p.m.

One exhibit sure to be a hit is the Hudson's Bay Co. display on the continent's newest faster growing sport—uranium prospecting.

This exhibit, inspired by a recent article in Life magazine, will show what is needed to hunt uranium, where it has been and can be found, and how to go about the tricky business of prospecting for it.

Clicking geiger counters, colorful "field" clothes for an entire family, camping equipment and recording gear will all be displayed and demonstrated.

In addition, there will be geological information maps, charts, mineral samples and even a new station wagon to get prospectors to the uranium country.

Everything from picks and shovels to tape measures, coffee pots and compasses is included in the prospectors' gear.

Boat trailers, fishing rods and rifles will be in other booths ranged round the [illegible] tank in the centre of the arena floor.

The tank will be used for the various entertainment acts.

Royal Victoria Yacht Club will have a sailboat display of the smaller, one-design classes.

Chief feature will be a Lightning class yacht, typical of the summer yachting activities here, while two Fireflite dinghies, a Davidson and a sated, will be exhibited to show that yachting is an all-year-round sport in Victoria.

All three craft will be fully rigged and the Fireflite will have multi-colored sails.

Thousands of other necessities and luxuries for sportsmen of all kinds will be displayed in the various booths.

The show will be held five days, closing Saturday night.

Expert Thinks Dog Owners Often in Need of Training

Blanche Saunders of Bedford N.Y., owner of the famous Carillon Kennels of Standard Poodles and internationally known authority on dog training, arrived in Victoria yesterday to judge the Greater Victoria Dog Obedience Club shows this weekend.

Miss Saunders judged two shows in Vancouver last week-end and will go on to Portland, Oregon to judge a show there on Sunday, leaving again on Monday to return to New York.

It was in 1933 that Miss Saunders and Mrs. Whitehouse Walker, who brought the idea from England started dog obedience training. Before that time obedience training in Canada and the United States had been for working dogs only.

Miss Saunders has had wide experience in the field of dog training and is firm about the fact which she says she learned long ago that often it is the owner rather than the dog that needs training.

During the war Miss Saunders worked with Josef Weiner at Princeton, NJ training dogs in sentry and guard work for oil companies. She believes all breeds vary in their natural aptitudes to guard and points dobermans and German shepherds at the head of the list for guard duty.

When judging at shows she usually takes an Irish setter to demonstrate as this breed tops her list as the best natured or as having the nicest disposition and the least temperamental.

Miss Saunders has given exhibitions for six years running at the Yankee Stadium, at Madison Square Gardens and other places.

Caesarian Births Found Not Limited

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The practice of sterilizing women after they have had several babies by caesarean birth is apparently not justified two obstetricians said Friday.

Their study finds many women apparently can safely have a number of babies by this surgical method.

The old concept is that a woman can have only one or two babies safely by caesarean delivery.

Doctors Hugh McNealy and Vincent De Fitzpatrick of the University of Maryland told the American Medical Association of a study of 600 women who had had three or more earlier caesarean deliveries.

ONE HAD 10

They said they were seeking evidence to confirm or refute the need for what they called the common practice of sterilizing women after a few such deliveries. They said the practice is based upon fear that a scar in the uterus will rupture during pregnancy after a few such operations.

Their 120 patients had had 384 previous caesarean babies and 14 earlier normal deliveries and another 120 babies were born later during the time of study.

More than 80 per cent of the women had had more than four caesarean sections or deliveries. Nineteen had five, nine had six, four had seven, one had nine and one [illegible]

They said that for reasons not explained the number of pregnancies began to drop sharply after about three caesarean births. Among possibilities were earlier sterilizations, natural sterility, or fear of repeat operations.

NO JUSTIFICATION

In the 130 deliveries during the time of study, seven resulted in death of the unborn baby or fetus. But there had been 2 such deaths of the fetus in the 498 previous deliveries. Thus one death of the fetus was attributed to rupture of the previous caesarean scar. Only one woman in the group died and that death was apparently due to causes not related to delivery, they said.

McNealy and Fitzpatrick said a series of caesarean births is not in itself a "justified indication" for sterilization and that women can apparently have any number of [illegible]

Cape Bretoners Gape at Spinster

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — Jacqueline Bergman hit town today in a chauffeur's cap and blue-length boots.

The 19-year-old Dutch socialite [illegible] out of the four-engined plane at the cost of a hop from Amsterdam and began discussing with customs and immigration officials over herself, her companion and 7 assorted dogs that claim pedigrees.

Miss Bergman plans to settle on a 2-acre farm at Mabou, 30 miles from this Cape Breton steel centre. Clad in khaki riding breeches, riding boots and a tom blazer, she hustled into the administration building and then sped back to the plane, watching the collection of hairy Afghan hounds and German shepherd dogs.

More than 2,000 Cape Bretoners gaped at the performance from behind the runway barricades.

Miss Bergman has been negotiating for more than a year for the farm owned by a Dane who emigrated to Canada 25 years ago.

The dead will be completed here. She left Holland because of what she termed too much red tape.

The 2 dogs that complete the menagerie along with a bouncing Miss Bergman are three horses, a pony and donkey.

President of UN Assembly Aboard Returning Polar Flight

VANCOUVER — President of the ninth general assembly of the United Nations, Dr. Eelco N. van Kleffens, with his wife and the rest of the passengers arriving here Sunday aboard Canadian Pacific Airlines regular flight over the roof of the world from Amsterdam.

The Super DC 6B Empress of Amsterdam will also carry business and press representatives of four different countries returning from CPAL's inaugural flight from Vancouver to Amsterdam. The Empress will touch down at Vancouver International Airport at 11 a.m.

Seth Hatton, publisher of The Daily Colonist, is aboard.

Another distinguished Netherlander aboard the flight will be the burgomaster of Amsterdam, Dr. Arnald Jan D'Ailly, who greeted top-ranking journalists, businessmen and political figures of Canada, United States, Australia and New Zealand when they arrived in the Dutch city last Saturday morning.

The aircraft covers the 1825 mile polar route in some 18 hours. Only one stop is scheduled, at Sondestrom, Greenland, where the plane will refuel.

Born in northern Holland and educated at the University of Leyden Dr van Kleffens rose to prominence when in the summer of 1939 Queen Wilhelmina appointed him minister of foreign affairs.

When the Nazis moved into Holland in May, 1940 Dr van Kleffens executed a daring removal of the Dutch royalty and government to England by hydroplane. Dr. van Kleffens is now both the president of the UN general assembly and Dutch minister to Portugal.

Talks Date Suitable Molotov Indicates

PARIS (AP) — Russia has no basic objection to beginning a Big Four top-level meeting July 18 at Geneva, Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov told French leaders Thursday.

An informed French source said Molotov told Premier Edgar Faure and Antoine Pinay, French foreign minister, at a lunch here that his government is not objecting to the place and date proposed by the Western powers for the Big Four meeting.

Molotov stopped over in Paris briefly on his way to San Francisco for the United Nations 10th anniversary session.

After his Russian guest had departed for Cherbourg to sail for New York, Faure told a press conference Molotov also had suggested that he and Pinay might visit Moscow.

The premier said Russia's invitation to Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany is the most recent evidence that the diplomatic thaw is continuing.

"We have no reason whatever to be suspicious of the position of Chancellor Adenauer," he said, adding that German reunification has long been among objectives of French policy.

"We cannot favor a system which keeps a great country divided," Faure said but added that conditions for reunification must be "suitable."

Retarded Children Get Help

Formation of the Greater Victoria Association for Retarded Children has been announced by its secretary-treasurer, M. Jowett.

The main object of the association is to promote the care, education and development of children retarded mentally, physically and socially, and to assist in the establishment of schools or centres where this program can be carried out.

The association hopes for the cooperation of medical authorities.

Its program will be to impress on the government and the public the need for continuing scientific research into the cause of mental handicap, its prevention and cure.

Fishing Employees To Receive Benefits

BY TOM GREEN
Colonist Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA After a two year battle, Maj Gen G R Pearkes, VC won a victory in the House of Commons yesterday to have "fringe" fishermen in Sooke harbor brought under the benefits of the Unemployment Insurance Act.

Recalling his interest in an extension of unemployment insurance to fishermen and to what the government in the past has described as "near fishermen," the Conservative MP for Esquimalt-Saanich brought up again in the Commons the question of employees of Sooke Harbor Fishing and Packing Co., which operates the salmon traps at Sooke.

Labor Minister Gregg said that perhaps the commission would prefer him not to say "near fishermen" but something probably a little further away from fishermen than that.

"In any case," the minister said "whatever they may be called, the chief commissioner under the Unemployment Insurance Act has assured me that group will be brought under the act."

Hope Voiced By Bulganin

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Nikolai Bulganin expressed hope Thursday night the joint efforts of Russia and India can "ease the tension off the east coast of China," near Formosa.

Indian Prime Minister Nehru, responding, praised the Soviet Union for "its great steps . . . for peace."

The two premiers spoke at a Kremlin dinner honoring Nehru, here on a state visit.

PARKSVILLE — Parksville Loggers will play host to Alberni Athletics in double header games at community park baseball diamond Sunday. Games are scheduled for 2 p.m. and 6 p.m.

Portland Firm's Bid Lowest for Culvert

An American company submitted the lowest tender on a supply of culvert for the PGE yesterday after the government threw out four identical bids from Vancouver firms last month.

The Beall Pipe and Tank Corp of Portland Ore., submitted a bid for $63,371 for the pipe. Duty is expected to bring it to $83,000. Their bid compared to around $105,000 from nine other companies.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett announced last month that bids from four Vancouver firms would all be rejected when the four turned in tenders of $106,507.50 identical to the cent.

The four companies submitted new bids yesterday. They were Rosen Metal Products $104,377, Armco Drainage and Metal Products $104,427, Pedlar People Ltd. $105,014 and Westeel Products Ltd. $106,477.

Geologist from Victoria Gets Doctorate at MIT

Jack Gower, 1355 Monterey, received his PhD in geology yesterday from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology at Cambridge, Mass.

Dr Gower who received BSc and MSc in UBC in 1950 and 1952 has accepted a position as geologist with Kerrison Exploration (Canada) Ltd., Toronto where he and his wife the former Evelyn Wells of this city, will make their home.

Roderick Pearce, 3111 Hart, received his BA in 1950 from Seattle University with a BA.

Jordan River Contributes To Jamboree

JORDAN RIVER — The Jordan River Athletic Association donated $25 to the fund for the world Scout jamboree in Ontario in August.

The district fastball league is now under way with uniforms for the Jordan River team supplied by various businesses in the area.

Good progress is being made by swimming classes held weekly under the supervision of H. Arthurs.

The monthly skeet shoot is to be held Sunday. Work parties now have improved the range.

Derby, tennis and playground committees report activity in all three branches.

The association will officiate at a local sports day June 19 sponsored by the Jordan River PTA.

Unified Police Training Planned

Members of the police commissions of the four Greater Victoria municipalities concluded an informal meeting at the home of Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele last night convinced that a unified plan can be worked out for training personnel of the four area police departments.

But Reeve Wurtele said further meetings will be necessary to work out concrete proposals.

Handicapped Group To See Work Centres

Six members of the League of the Handicapped in Victoria leave Sunday for a three-day inspection tour of rehabilitation centres in Seattle and Vancouver.

They are Fred Blakeney, director of the league's plans for factory to be operated by the handicapped; Mrs. Blakeney; Alan Browning, league vice-president; Frank Robinson, Multiple Sclerosis Society, and Mrs. Mabel Spencer and Mrs. Ella Baverstock.

Mr. and Mrs. Lew Gibson, members of the league auxiliary, will drive some of the party to Seattle after a journey from Sidney to Anacortes. Others will take the CPR train to Seattle where the group will inspect the factory of Goodwill Industries Limited, which employs more than 300 handicapped persons.

Mr. Blakeney said inspection in Vancouver will be at the Western Rehabilitation Centre.

Canadian Epilepsy Association which has begun a campaign to seek financial aid for epileptics has appointed Mr. Blakeney its representative in Greater Victoria. His chief duty will be a membership drive.

About Kalakala

Toll Bridge Authority To Have Final Say

The toll bridge authority of Washington State will have the final say in whether or not Washington State Ferries' Kalakala comes on the Victoria Port Angeles service, and if the Bremerton Chamber of Commerce has its way she won't.

The Bremerton chamber has protested a proposal to remove the Kalakala from the Seattle-Bremerton run to operate across the Strait of Juan de Fuca to Victoria.

A letter sent by the chamber to Governor Arthur B. Langlie, Washington State Ferries and the toll bridge authority said a substitute for the Kalakala would reduce the Bremerton schedule by one trip during daytime hours.

Ferry officials have been considering the switching of the Kalakala to the Port Angeles run since the Black Ball ferry Chinook was removed from that route.

Chamber of Commerce officials here, who were instrumental in having the Kalakala considered for the Port Angeles run, did not comment on the Bremerton protest last night.

C. M. Bob Nelles, chairman of the tourist trade group of the chamber, said if additional ferry service is not provided this year it will mean $1,000,000 loss in tourist business to Victoria.

Final decision about the Kalakala is not expected until the end of this week.

Sidney, Keating Promised 'Dials'

Sidney and Keating will be the next Vancouver Island telephone exchanges to go on the automatic dial system, W. S. Pipes, vice-president and general manager of the B.C. Telephone Company announced last night.

Some engineering has been done on the project already and an order for the equipment will be placed shortly. Delivery of equipment will take two years and the cutover to the dial system will take place in 1958 or 1959.

SATURDAY, JUNE 11, 1955

Today's quotation: "Music is well said to be the speech of angels."—Carlyle.

Saturday for everyone: Proceed tactfully and on the basis of previous experience. Don't issue ultimatums; you are likely to be taken at your word and regret it later. Evening: see elders and higher-ups.

Look for your birthdate and birthsign below.

March 21 to April 19 (Aries)—Look for little stability in today's developments; relationships are subject to ups and downs. Evening: seek rest.

April 20 to May 20 (Taurus) — Stand prepared for tests in relationships with parents, persons of influence, business. Evening: see friends.

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini) — Hold plans subject to revision; keep turbulent moods in check to avoid rifts. Use care en route. Evening: see higher-ups.

June 21 to July 22 (Cancer) — Adopt a prudent policy concerning funds, articles that are borrowed or on loan. Evening: get around.

July 23 to August 22 (Leo)—Deal cautiously with teammates, people in general. Try to meet others half way. Evening: benefit through others.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo) Conciliate the stresses that have influenced job or bodily welfare. Evening: be co-operative.

September 23 to October 22 — Those you hold dear may be subject to pressure; accomodate unanticipated changes, take no risks. Evening: serve or be served.

October 23 to November 21 (Scorpio)—Be ready for unexpected guests or incidents that may upset the day's program. Meet surprises gracefully. Evening: seek pleasures.

November 22 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — The unexpected tends to influence interests of kin, community. Chart activities, calls in advance. Evening: be at home.

December 22 to January 19 (Capricorn)—Current stresses or financial perplexities can reach a climax today; give calm, careful attention to them. Evening: see kin, neighbors.

January 20 to February 18 (Aquarius) — Make certain that others are responsive before you plan the unexpected. Put the emphasis on cordiality. Evening: seek to gain.

February 19 to March 20 (Pisces) —Don't let your zest for excitement lead you beyond the limits of discretion; clear away routine tasks. Evening: promote popularity!

Planning ahead—Good for entertainment, sociability, etc.: June 12, 13, 17, 18, 19, 20.

The bidding:

NORTH	EAST	SOUTH	WEST
1 ♡	Pass	2 N.T.	Pass
3 N.T.	All pass

North's skinny, nimpy opening bid is in accordance with modern expert style, although usually this hand would be passed unless the heart suit were somewhat stronger—say king-ten-nine at a minimum. Good players have found that it pays to get in the first bid wherever possible — but they have to be prepared to drop the bidding fast and to play some touch-and-go contracts. As Americans play the two no-trump response, North was forced to bid again; as the English play it, North could pass with such a minimum as was opened in this case.

Truth to tell, there wasn't a very bright chance of making the game, but with the aid of rare luck and skillful play the nine tricks materialized. North's queen won the opening spade lead and declarer almost didn't know where to start looking for his tricks. His first shot was to lead a low heart away from the king. East played the queen and returned a spade. Dummy won and led another low heart. Now if East played the ace it would establish the heart suit, so East ducked in order to preserve two heart stoppers, permitting South's jack to win the trick.

Abandoning the hearts as hopeless, declarer led to dummy's diamond king. East topped this card with the ace and returned his last spade. South won and dummy discarded a heart. Next came the ace and king of clubs. East couldn't escape the end-play that was staring him in the face, for if he dropped the queen of club's North's jack would win the third round of the suit. But when East won the third club lead and returned a diamond, declarer boldly finessed the ten as the only chance to make his contract. When the finesse won, South was able to cash his long club and the queen of diamonds to bring home a miraculous nine tricks.

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Police forces across western Ontario were put on the alert Thursday in an attempt to track down two bandits who held up a Toronto-Dominion Bank in suburban London township and escaped with $2,000.

The two robbers, one brandishing a .45-cal. revolver, forced the bank manager and three employees to lie down on the floor. One scooped bills from the teller's cage into a duffel bag, leaving the silver untouched. An attempt to get money from the vault was foiled by a time-lock mechanism.

GIANT NEW SHOPPING CENTRE SLATED FOR VICTORIA

Monkey Apes Men

"Blackie," a spider monkey, has just as much sense as his cousins in trousers. He prefers girls to men. He clung close to Barbara Baker, teller at Bank of Nova Scotia, Hillside and Douglas, while she went shopping at Fairways Grocery. And he was not friendly with the man behind the camera.

East Firm Makes Bid

Simpson-Sears Seeks Lansdowne Field Site

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

Application for the rezoning of 14 acres for a new community shopping centre has been made on behalf of the big eastern firm of Simpson-Sears.

The land is the southern section of the old Lansdowne airfield, south of the new Lansdowne Junior High school. It is bounded by Shelbourne, Lansdowne, Richmond and Newton and is on the Victoria-Saanich boundary, one block from Oak Bay.

The application for commercial rezoning of the area has been passed on by Saanich council to the Capital Region Planning Board for investigation.

It is understood that if the application is granted, Simpson-Sears will build a large store on the property, and part of the land will be leased for a chain grocery outlet.

Simpson-Sears development, which might include a large store of Canada Safeway Ltd., would occupy the lower one-third of the first government-financed "land assembly project" in Greater Victoria.

HOUSING SCHEME

Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, which owns the airfield property, has drawn up a $250,000 housing scheme which involves the sale of the other two thirds of the 46 acres to home builders.

There are at least 135 lots for homes.

Central Mortgage and Housing is paying for installation of sewers, water mains, fire hydrants, street lighting, seal-coat hard-top roads and curbs and other services. Cost of services is included in price of the lots, which will average 60 by 100 feet.

H. D. Dawson, Saanich municipal engineer, said department crews will begin placing services on Carnarvon next week and will move on the short distance to the housing area "in a week or two."

He stated earlier that construction of homes should be started before the end of the year.

Majority of the commercial area will be between Newton road and Bowker Creek. Apartments will be included. All of the area is now zoned "single family."

Simpson-Sears development will be centrally located in Greater Victoria. In the immediate vicinity, more than 700 homes have been constructed during the past two or three years, majority of them in the Dean Heights area.

Building still goes on in the district, bounded roughly by Lansdowne, Haultain, Richmond and Cadboro Bay road.

When the Simpson and Sears-Roebuck organizations formed Simpson-Sears a few years ago, Victoria was one of 20 cities in Canada where major stores were planned.

Original site was at Tolmie and Douglas, but this site apparently has been abandoned. The company has already built extensive developments in Burnaby and New Westminster.

Application for rezoning of the airfield property is expected to be considered by Saanich town planning commission at its next meeting, June 16.

Howe Sees 1955 As Best Year Yet

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe said Friday night that 1955 "will probably be the most prosperous year in Canada's history."

He said the CCF and Progressive Conservative parties have been predicting depressions ever since the Second World War.

"If there has been a depression in Canada this year it must have been the shortest on record, for production is higher than it has ever been and employment is rising rapidly after the winter lull."

Mr. Howe made his optimistic prediction in a recorded broadcast in the CBC's free time political series, the nation's business. A similar statement was made by Transport Minister Marler, speaking in French on another CBC network.

"I have no doubt that there are going to be some ups and downs in business, but I think we are going to continue moving forward here in Canada," Mr. Howe said.

He said that in the six-month period ended last March 31 Canada exported more goods than in any corresponding period before. In the first four months of the year, exports were $144,000,000 above those of a year earlier.

Jobless Gain Six Weeks' Pay

OTTAWA (CP) — The government agreed Friday to cut only 15 weeks, instead of 21, from the maximum period in which unemployed can draw benefits under the Unemployment Insurance Act.

Police Glimpse Fugitive Bank Bandit; Guided Search Turns Up None of Loot

ST. RAYMOND DE PORTNEUF, Que. (CP)—A fleeting glimpse of a desperate fugitive and a "wild goose chase" for loot from a bank robbery featured a grim manhunt in nearby forests late Friday.

These developments came after the second man of a hunted trio—sought since a bank robbery Tuesday—gave himself up, exhausted, hungry and footsore, and his flesh raw from mosquito bites.

He was identified by police as Claude Gingras, 17. Leo Cyr, 28, of Montreal, gave himself up Wednesday.

The lone fugitive at large was identified by police as Frank Gingras, 28, brother of Claude. Police quoted Claude as saying Frank is haunted by the mistaken fear that he had killed a policeman. Actually a constable was wounded in a skirmish Wednesday.

Lieut. Conrad Giroux said he and other officers late Friday carried out a "wild goose chase" after being told by Cyr that he hid his share of the $3,000 loot from the bank robbery near the St. Anne river, some six miles west of here.

Giroux said no money was found although Cyr accompanied the officers on the search. Earlier in the day, Cyr pleaded guilty in Quebec City to a formal bank robbery charge. He was remanded for sentence until June 17.

The search—involving some 50 heavily - armed provincial policemen—received sharp impetus late Friday with a tip that Frank Gingras had been spotted in a field near where Claude was first seen.

A police party—accompanied by this reporter—investigated the tip and saw a man running haltingly along the edge of a wood. He escaped before some 10 pursuers, carrying sub-machine guns, rifles and revolvers, could close in.

Lieut. Giroux said police have been ordered not to enter the bush unless necessary, as they might well be "sitting ducks" for the fugitive, who is known to be well armed.

"We can wait," the lieutenant muttered.

This Story Made Of Whole Cloth

WASHINGTON (UP)—Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther explained Friday that size is all a matter of perspective.

He told a National Press Club lunch a story to illustrate this. It involved Russia's bulky Communist party secretary Nikita S. Khruschev.

Seems Khruschev, before his trip to Yugoslavia, wanted a three-piece suit made. He took a bolt of cloth to his Moscow tailor.

"Sorry," the tailor replied, "but there isn't enough cloth. I'll have to omit the vest."

At Belgrade, a Yugoslav tailor agreed to make a three-piece suit.

Khruschev asked how he could do this when the Moscow tailor couldn't.

"It's not so difficult," replied the Yugoslav. "You see, you are a bigger man in Moscow than you are in Belgrade."

U.S. Navy Pacific Chief To Pay Call on Hibbard

Admiral Felix B. Stump, USN, commander-in-chief of the United States Pacific fleet, will be in Victoria Monday to pay an informal call on Rear-Admiral J. C. Hibbard prior to the latter's retirement next month as Flag Officer Pacific Coast.

Admiral Stump will be accompanied by Rear-Admiral A. M. Bledsoe of Seattle, commander of the Northern Sector of the Western Sea Frontier.

Admiral Hibbard has conferred regularly with Admiral Stump at his headquarters at Pearl Harbor, and with Admiral Bledsoe in Seattle.

Monday's call will be the first Admiral Stump has paid to the RCN's Pacific Command in his current appointment.

The two visiting admirals are to arrive at Patricia Bay airport at 10.30 a.m. They will be met by Admiral Hibbard and escorted by RCMP to the dockyard, where a guard of honor will be inspected by Admiral Stump.

A personal 17-gun salute will be fired for Admiral Stump from Duntze Head.

After a meeting with Admiral Hibbard there will be a small reception at Admiral's House.

Ready for Smuggling into U.S.

$1,000,000,000 Dope Hoard Stored by Ring in Mexico

NEW YORK (AP)—Federal authorities reported Friday that a narcotics syndicate has $1,000,000,000 worth of cocaine stored in Mexico for smuggling into the United States.

The report came with the disclosure that officers have already seized one shipment, worth $2,500,000, and tabbed the biggest ever netted in the U.S.

Federal authorities in Brooklyn said the shipment was found with the arrest of two messengers who brought the cocaine to New York City from Mexico.

It was indicated also that officials know the identity of the syndicate's chief, identified only as a "Senor X," and are on the lookout for him.

Operations of the vast dope enterprise were made public Friday when a sealed indictment, charging the two messengers with various federal narcotics law violations, was opened in court.

Their arrest had been kept secret since May 18 to permit authorities to try to nab the syndicate leader. However, he apparently got wind of developments and called off a projected trip to the United States.

Those under arrest were identified as Manuel Mendez Marfa, 33, of Havana, Cuba, and Miguel Angel Gonzalez y Hernandez, also 33, of Mexico City.

They were said to have come here by commercial airline, smuggling the cocaine in false-bottom suitcases.

Screen Debut . . . . . With Expressions

Liberace (in Color) Gives It All He's Got

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Liberace is making his debut as a movie star in his first straight dramatic role—minus his candelabra and brother George. But there will be dancing and expressions ranging from "shock to tears."

In case you've missed the pearly-toothed television matinee idol on the home screens, Warner studio is presenting him to the world as an actor in big screen color and stereophonic sound.

"I'm stepping out of character for the first time and people are curious to see how I meet the challenge," Liberace said between scenes.

"Yesterday I did a very difficult scene in which I had to show shock, panic and sadness, in that order. Why, I got so worked up," he smiled, "that as I came off the set I was still crying!"

Previously the pianist did only a bit on a Shelly Winters' movie, "South Sea Sinners," and performed in two RKO musical shorts.

After he became the hottest thing on TV since old movies, Warner's waved a contract under his nose. The rich Liberace decided to become richer "because movies will be a wonderful way to get to still a greater audience than I reach on TV—Europe."

His movie, "Sincerely Yours," is a story about a musician who goes deaf and, while recovering, influences the lives of persons who pass by his window. The plot sounds suspiciously like an earlier Warner epic starring George Arliss, "The Man Who Played God."

"Sincerely Yours" will be but the first film in Liberace's new career as a movie actor. He has, however, no plans to re-do other Arliss films such as "Disraeli" and "Alexander Hamilton."

"I'm scheduled for five pictures at Warner's" he explained. "They're talking about doing a period picture, a comedy and a re-make of 'The Man Who Came To Dinner'."

Though Liberace has left his frilly shirts and gold shoes at home, he's kept his famous smile for his movie.

"And the script embodies things people know me for, such as love of family, religion, tragedy and humor," he added.

His dressing room at the studio boasts silver wallpaper and his familiar flowing signature on the door. Workers from nearby movies crowd his set to watch the TV star in action.

For today's scene he was supposed to be playing in Carnegie Hall ("When Irish Eyes are smiling"). Then he did a neat soft shoe to "Tea For Two."

"He's been practicing his dance routines around his piano-shaped swimming pool," a Liberace aide confided.

Gas Needs Great

HAMILTON (CP)—The natural gas industry promises a tremendous new source of energy for Canada and it is a matter of urgency that a solution to the gas problem be found as quickly as possible, Vernon Taylor, western regional producing manager for Imperial Oil Ltd. said Friday.

Addressing the annual meeting of the Natural Gas and Petroleum Association of Canada, Mr. Taylor said development of natural gas will stimulate additional investment and employment and the oil industry which "had had to fly on one wing owing to the absence of an economic market for gas."

Mr. Taylor predicted that at least 400,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day will be exported from Alberta to eastern Canada and south by 1960. A similar amount could be exported to the Pacific coast and utilities in Alberta and Saskatchewan would need approximately 375,000,000 cubic feet Western Canada accordingly would have to produce nearly 1,200,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day to meet those demands.

OTTAWA (CP) — The government agreed Friday to cut only 15 weeks, instead of 21, from the maximum period in which unemployed can draw benefits under the Unemployment Insurance Act.

Labor Minister Gregg proposed to the Commons that the maximum benefit period be set at 36 weeks in a bill revamping the act.

The 14-year-old statute has provided a maximum of 51 weeks and the government, in its overhaul of the measure this session, originally proposed to cut it to 39 weeks.

Yacht Club Race Season Highlight

The waterfront from Cadboro bay to the breakwater and beyond will be one long grandstand Sunday for the public to watch Royal Victoria Yacht Club's major sailing event of the season.

This is the annual race to William Head and back, approximately 28 miles, for a trophy put up many years ago by the late Ben Temple, one of the fathers of yacht racing in B.C. waters.

About a score of yachts, including Royal Canadian Navy Sailing Association's six Sailerette class sloops, will be in the race this year, and their tactical manoeuvering for position will be in full view.

Race will start from Cadboro Bay at 10 a.m. Sunday and the course leaves it optional to skippers to pass Trial island either to starboard or port. From there the course will parallel the shoreline, passing inside Brotchie ledge before yachts begin the long beat to windward to the William Head marker.

On the return leg, likely to be a spectacular spinnaker run, yachts will pass outside Trial island approaching the finish line in Cadboro Bay.

Old Lansdowne Airfield Site

Giant Shopping Centre May Be Built in Victoria

Simpsons-Sears Asks 14 Acres

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

Application for the rezoning of 14 acres for a new community shopping centre has been made on behalf of the big eastern firm of Simpson-Sears.

The land is the southern section of the old Lansdowne airfield, south of the new Lansdowne Junior High school. It is bounded by Shelbourne, Lansdowne, Richmond and Newton and is on the Victoria-Saanich boundary, one block from Oak Bay.

The application for commercial rezoning of the area has been passed on by Saanich council to the Capital Region Planning Board for investigation.

It is understood that if the application is granted, Simpson-Sears will build a large store on the property, and part of the land will be leased for a chain grocery outlet.

Simpson-Sears development, which might include a large store of Canada Safeway Ltd., would occupy the lower one-third of the first government-financed "land assembly project" in Greater Victoria.

HOUSING SCHEME

Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, which owns the airfield property, has drawn up a $250,000 housing scheme which involves the sale of the other two thirds of the 46 acres to home builders.

There are at least 135 lots for homes.

Central Mortgage and Housing is paying for installation of sewers, water mains, fire hydrants, street lighting, seal-coat hard-top roads and curbs and other services. Cost of services is included in price of the lots, which will average 60 by 100 feet.

H. D. Dawson, Saanich municipal engineer, said department crews will begin placing services on Carnarvon next week and will move on the short distance to the housing area "in a week or two."

He stated earlier that construction of homes should be started before the end of the year.

Majority of the commercial area will be between Newton road and Bowker Creek. Apartments will be included. All of the area is now zoned "single family."

Simpson-Sears development will be centrally located in Greater Victoria. In the immediate vicinity, more than 700 homes have been constructed during the past two or three years, majority of them in the Dean Heights area.

ONE OF 20 CITIES

Building still goes on in the district, bounded roughly by Lansdowne, Haultain, Richmond and Cadboro Bay road.

When the Simpson and Sears-Roebuck organizations formed Simpson-Sears a few years ago, Victoria was one of 20 cities in Canada where major stores were planned.

Original site was at Tolmie and Douglas, but this site apparently has been abandoned. The company has already built extensive developments in Burnaby and New Westminster.

Application for re-zoning of the airfield property is expected to be considered by Saanich town planning commission at its next meeting, June 16.

Settlement Hopes High

VANCOUVER (CP) — Optimism for the early settlement of the contract dispute between 30,000 loggers and 168 operators was expressed here Friday by conciliator Fred Smelts.

The coastal industry is arguing over demands by the International Woodworkers of America (CIO-CCL) for a 10-cent increase and fringe benefits. Mr. Smelts said he was "reasonably optimistic" talks would produce a peaceful meeting for a week.
